NAVY REVEALS ALL SAVED ON 'WAKEFIELD'

Fire of Unknown Origin Hits Former 'Manhattan,' Pride of U. S. Merchant Fleet.

HULK TOWED TO PORT

Civilians Among Those Taken From Navy Ship as Flames Break Out on Deck.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The naval transport Wakefield, formerly the liner Manhattan, was severely damaged by a fire at sea Sept. 3, the navy announced today, but more than 1,600 passengers and crew members were removed without loss of life.

The charred hulk of the 24,000-ton ship, one time queen of the United States merchant fleet, has now been salvaged and towed to an Atlantic coast port, a navy statement said.

Adding that "preliminary reports indicate that all the passengers and crew were safe. The navy said several were injured.

The fire was described as being of "undetermined origin."

It broke out on one deck level and spread swiftly throughout the ten-year-old, $10,000,000 ship.

It soon became necessary to remove more than one thousand passengers, many of whom were civilians, the others presumably being men in the naval service, the navy related.

In addition to the one thousand there were, according to the vessel's normal complement, six hundred to seven hundred officers and crewmen aboard, commanded by Commander Harold Gardner Bradbury, of Port Angeles, Washington, a coast guard officer.

The navy said the rescue was brought about in a thrilling manner by warships protecting the convoy in which the Wakefield was traveling to an east coast port.

A cruiser maneuvered its bow alongside the stern of the transport and a destroyer placed itself along the side. At these close quarters the passengers were transferred rapidly from the blazing ex-liner.

The crew remained aboard the ship fighting to bring the fire

8 Dead In Newark Bomber Crash

SIX IN PLANE, TWO CIVILIANS ARE VICTIMS

Salvage Workers Remove Last Two Bodies From Army Craft.

(By Associated Press)

NEWARK — The mid-day crash of a twin-motored army bomber into an apartment building killed eight persons —six occupants of the plane and two women civilians, authorities reported today.

City firemen, directed by army officers investigating the accident, early today found the body of Mrs. A. L. Weston, 62-year-old widow, deep under debris of the two-story structure which she owned. Mrs. Dollie Campbell, returning from a shopping trip, was killed while walking by the building.

Salvage workers also removed from the wreckage the bodies of two of the plane's occupants, Lieut. Russell E. Newlin, 30, of Indianapolis, and O. A. Pecon of Dayton, civilian crew chief at Wright Field.

The bomber hedge-hopped over Newark's business district yesterday noon, sheared off tree-tops, scraped the roof of the Licking county jail, damaged a residence and struck the Weston building, which was demolished as a gasoline tank ripped loose from the plane and exploded.

Flaming gasoline and wreckage also ignited the nearby home of E. J. Edmonds and a former church building occupied by the offices of Dr. Roland Jones.

Seconds earlier, two men leaped from the low-flying bomber and plummeted to earth when their parachutes failed to open. One fell through the roof of the home of Dr. Louis Mitchell. The other, Lieut. Lawrence S. Lawver, 29, of Freeport, Ill., the plane's co-pilot, plunged to a loading platform at the Baltimore & Ohio railroad depot.

At Wright Field, where the ship took off in the morning, its occupants were identified as Col. M. Kilpatrick, 33, of Houma, La., pilot; Private Charles Watson and Corp. R. A. Arens, 21, both of Dayton; Lieut. Lawver, Lieut. Newlin and Pecon.

Two employes of the apartment building were injured, neither critically. They were Mrs. Walter Welsh, who suffered a jaw fracture, and her daughter, Mrs. Paul Winsch, who received back injuries, cuts and bruises.

Wreckage was scattered over a wide area by the impact of

DRAW UP BILL ON FDR ORDER

Legislators Seek Price-Wage Measure Acceptable To Labor, Farmers.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — An initial blaze of congressional opposition to President Roosevelt's demand for legislation to stabilize farm prices subsided somewhat today as administration leaders labored over a bill which they hoped would appeal to farm and labor groups alike.

Chairman Brown (D., Mich.) of a senate subcommittee which has handled previous price control legislation announced that a comprehensive measure would be introduced in the senate tomorrow and would be taken up by the full banking committee either Friday or Monday.

There was little apprehension on Capitol Hill that the president would move to stabilize prices by executive order on Oct. 1, provided congress had made good progress toward that end by that time.

Although details of the bill remained to be worked out, Brown

5,958 Pupils, 50 Less Than Last Year, Enroll In Schools

Mansfield public schools reopened for a new term today with 50 fewer pupils enrolled than on opening day last year.

"Everything started off in good shape," was Supt. W. L. Miller's analysis of the first day's program.

He said the enrollment figures reported at noon by principals of the 13 buildings showed 5,958 pupils enrolled as compared with 6,008 on opening day last year. Six schools had more pupils and seven reported enrollment declines.

The enrollment is expected to climb at least 200 within the next month as more pupils return to classes from summer jobs. Total enrollment after the first month of school last year exceeded 6,300.

There was a noticeable drop in enrollment in the three schools in the city's industrial area, Bowman, Newman, and Bushnell. On the other hand, most of the buildings on the south and west sides of the city reported increases.

In the Bowman district enrollment dropped to 838 from 871 last year. There was a drop of 20 at Newman school where 362 pupils reported for classes today. A bigger decline was reported at Bushnell school where today's enrollment was 154 as compared with 193 last year.

Enrollment at Senior high school today was 1,220, or 38 under the opening day last year. John Simpson Junior high school reported a drop of 10 to 870, while Johnny Appleseed Junior high had a marked in-

BELOW STATE

County Sales Tax Drops 25 Per Cent; Ohio Average 13.

Richland county retail sales tax receipts to Aug. 22 were nearly 25 per cent below figures for the corresponding period last year while the state-wide decline was only 13 per cent, according to the report of State Treasurer Don H. Ebright.

Collections in Richland county to Aug. 22 this year amounted to $341,849, a drop of $119,510 from the total for the county at a corresponding time in August last year.

In the state, tax collected on food purchases for the month ending Aug. 22 jumped to $452,259 from $405,563 for a comparable period in 1941, indicating that housewives are stocking up on food supplies in anticipation of rationing of a number of commodities.

Democrats Elect Frank Cave as County Chairman

A Richland county Democrat of the old school, Frank Cave, former speaker and parlimentarian of the Ohio house of representatives, will head the county Democratic executive committee during the next two years.

Cave was elected at the committee's organization session last night at the courthouse, winning over C. L. Ford, the Young Democratic candidate, 30 to 17.

Cave, now engaged in the real estate business in Mansfield, succeeds John C. O'Donnell as chairman. O'Donnell, who has served four years at the head of the party, was not a candidate for re-election because of his duties as acting prosecutor. The committee last night voted a resolution of thanks to him for his work in behalf of the party.

George Koch of Shelby was elected vice chairman and John Correll was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Neither Koch nor Correll was opposed.

The committee filled three vacancies in its membership, electing Miss Jessie M. Zediker in Precinct E of the Sixth ward, Mrs. Clark Brook in Precinct D of the Second ward, and Leslie Wagner

OK 7 BILLION IN NEW TAXES

Senators Approve 5 Per Cent 'Victory' Levy on All Earnings Above $624.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate finance committee stood committed today to a minimum of $7,675,000,000 in new taxes—about $1,025,000,000 short of the treasury's goal—as a result of its vote to adopt a 5 per cent "victory" levy on all individual earnings in excess of $624 a year.

In addition, the committee action proposed to segregate $1,100,000,000 in individual income from any form of inflationary spending by channeling it into insurance payments, debt retirement, bond purchases or post war rebates.

With treasury officials scheduled to report on the possibility of combining this new "victory" impost with the regular income tax in the new revenue bill, committee members said the net re-

PROGRAM ENDS

County Builds 10 Miles of New Roads, Resurfaces 20.

Forced to cut short the county road program because of war priorities on materials, County Engineer Loward Sword has finished his 1942 construction work which usually runs until cold weather halts operations.

Sword said his crew completed about half the usual amount of work this summer, building 10 miles of new and reconstructed roads and resurfacing approximately 20 miles.

New construction was in eight townships, including two miles in Jefferson township, slightly more than a mile in Plymouth township, one mile in Weller township, and shorter stretches of road in Madison, Franklin, Butler, and Cass townships.

Parry Attack Of More Nazis At Stalingrad

Planes Cover Sky as Hitler Makes Frenzied Attempt to Take Key City; Russians Force Foe Back on Central Front.

(By Associated Press)

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, frenziedly driving his armies to capture Stalingrad, threw fresh masses of men and armor into the bloody assault today, but the Russians declared they were holding firmly on all sides of the imperilled Volga metropolis.

German field headquarters asserted in broad terms that tank-led Nazi troops had stormed and captured "dominating heights" in the fortified zone west of Stalingrad after stubborn fighting.

On Stalingrad's southern flank, the Russians said Red army mortar batteries and riflemen killed 350 Axis troops in beating off four successive assaults supported by massed planes.

Soviet accounts said Axis planes were so thick they were "literally hanging over our front line and bombing our positions," but the Russians waited them out and then charged to drive off the Axis ground forces.

Front-line dispatches said Nazi tanks and infantry, attacking under an umbrella of dive bombers, deepened a narrow wedge in the city's western defenses yesterday.

"After a violent engagement, our troops retreated to a new defense line," Soviet headquarters said.

Then, amid bitter all-night fighting, the Red armies stiffened and at mid-day today the Soviet command indicated there had been no further withdrawals.

Nevertheless, the situation was described as "particularly complicated" immediately west of Stalingrad as the Germans moved up large reinforcements and attacked continuously.

Striking out on the central front, Soviet troops were reported to have dislodged the enemy from a fortified district west of Moscow, killed 400 Germans and captured prisoners.

Without editorial comment, Soviet newspapers prominently displayed Prime Minister Churchill's war review in which Churchill promised that Britain and the United States would come to Russia's aid "as quickly as possible without regard to losses or sacrifices."

Nor was there any official comment on Churchill's statement that strongly reinforced British armies in Iran (Persia) and Iraq might eventually support the Russian left flank in the Caucasus, now gravely threatened by Nazi columns driving far down the land bridge to the Middle East.

Soviet dispatches said the strug-

Diplomatic Break Seen as Washington Rejects Bombing Protest.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Rupture of United States relations with Vichy loomed again today on the diplomatic horizon.

This time it was Vichy's protest against American air raids over occupied France, and the United States' sharp rejection of that protest, which revived talk of an imminent break.

The protest, delivered personally to the American charge de'affaires in Vichy by pro-Axis Chief of Government Pierre Laval, was "immediately" rejected, the state department disclosed last night, and Laval was notified the bombing of German military plants in France would continue.

Laval protested specifically against recent bombings of Le Havre and Rouen both in the occupied zone in which he said there were numerous casualities. (Vichy reported 80 civilians killed and 130 injured).

American Charge D'affaires S. Pinkney Tuck replied that "military plants operated by or for Germany and other German military properties in France

Nazis Ordered to 'Get' Fortresses That Hit Morale

By LARRY MEIER
(INS Staff Correspondent)

A U. S. BOMBER BASE, Somewhere in England—Nazi airmen have been ordered to "get" the big American B-17 bombers, in the opinion of the intrepid lads who fly the flying fortresses and who also believe today that they have rocked the morale of the German air force.

The American filers are convinced that their bull's-eye bombing and ferocious fighting power, demonstrated in recent raids over Occupied France and other Nazi-held territories, had had a definite disturbing effect on the Germans.

"We've got their number now," commented Maj. Paul Tibbets, jr., of Miami, in expressing a consensus of the men I interviewed here at the rambling, camouflaged home of the flying fortresses.

Plans 100 Offices to Enforce Control Over Buses, Trucks

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Foreshadowing nation-wide restrictions on pleasure driving, the office of defense transportation today planned to set up 100 more regional offices to enforce its drastic order controlling use of the nation's 5,000,000 trucks, buses and taxicabs through gasoline "rationing."

The ODT announced a new program under which all buses, trucks and taxicabs must obtain "certificates of necessity" for operation after Nov. 15. The certificates will limit mileage and ultimately gasoline consumption, even in areas outside the 17-state rationing area along the eastern seaboard.

Since the ODT clamped down so hard on commercial vehicles, it was forecast in informed circles that restrictions of some sort also would be ordered for pleasure driving. It was pointed out that the ODT truck-bus-taxicab order will not go into effect until Nov. 15, or more than two months hence.

The owners will be forced to show certificates before they can buy gasoline, or obtain rationing orders for tires. They also will be required to hold one to buy replacement parts.

The ODT further ordered that "the tires of every vehicle affected by the order must be checked at an inspection agency designated by OPA every 5,000 miles or at the end of each 60-day period, whichever occurs first."

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

It's Fun to Be Fooled.

Around Broadway, night clubs usually spring into being at the drop of a hat check concession. Despite elaborate front-men, slick headwaiters, beaming captains and nationally known owners, most night spots owe their existence to the money which enabled them to open—and that money is usually the wad of bills paid to the club's operator for the privilege of running the various concessions there. The tip-takers and their various inter-table activities have been much neglected by the night club historians.

Though the floor shows and the barflies make more interesting copy, the hat-check, flower, cigaret and camera girls are, literally, the backbones of the industry. And a pretty back, too.

If any Broadwayite could recall the total tips he has paid out in night clubs, he'd have a sizable war bond to tuck away in his drawer. Whether he knows it—and likes it—or not, a good part of his night club time has been taken up by the ministrations and solicitations of the pretty emissaries of the concessionaire.

There is little doubt about the importance of these activities to the night life scheme. So the next time you're in a club, observe the fascinating operations pursued by the lovely ladies as they woo quarters, half-dollars and dollar bills. Here are some trade secrets:

Hat check girls are always the prettiest girls in the club, because, after all, they are the first scenery to meet the eye as the customer enters.

If a "chapeau checkie" knows the man—particularly if he is with a girl—she will address him by name and tell him he doesn't need a check. The feeling of importance induced in the gentleman will later be reflected in a sizable tip. No matter who you are, if you give a hat check girl less than a quarter, she'll give you a look that you will carry around with you for the rest of your night-club-going days. Brother, it's a dirty one!

A wise hat check girl will never place a man't hat within his reach while she's helping him on with his coat. She will hand him his hat—firmly but imperceptibly clenched in her pretty hand—and will try with flattering words and soulful smiles to get his manly fist clutching in his coin pocket before she parts with the hat. No expert hat-checker has ever failed to get a tip, though many newcomers overlook this important step and thus miss out on forgetful, rude or inebriated customers. The qualifications, then, for a hatcheck girl are: beauty of face, figure and smile—and a strong grip.

The girls with personality and sales ability are sent out on the floor. Take the cigaret girl. (If you don't, she'll take you). She will always look carefully for half-empty packs of cigarets on the tables. When she spots one, she immediately whips out that particular brand and offers it for sale. Girls are allowed but one minute at a table in which to clinch a sale. If they dally longer, they're fired. The sale is a minor matter. It's the coaxing of the tip that is a little story of high finance in itself.

In a night club, most popular brands of cigarets are 25 cents a pack. Usually, the man offers a dollar bill in payment. Sensing an opportunity for a large tip, the cigaret girl often opens the pack and offers a cigaret to the customer before giving him his change. This is known as the "softening up" process. Then she places his change in a specially designed little tray, which is so constructed that it is quite difficult to pick up the coins without fumbling. Two quarters, two dimes and a nickel are put on the tray, with the quarters up front.

An experienced girl never puts the tray on the table, but always holds it in a way that is inconvenient to the seeker of change. The girl usually talks to the man while he is attempting to retrieve his money. Any little distraction may help. Without being obvious about it, the seasoned cigaret girl always manages practically to cover one dime with her fingers. She considers the deal a complete success if she manages to make the operation embarrassing to the man that he leaves all of the small change—25 cents.

The tragic part is—the girls aren't allowed to keep these hard-gotten tips. But if they don't scare up enough tips for their bosses, they're soon out of a job.

The flower girl has a simple routine, highly effective. She places a gardenia up against the women's dress, smiles sweetly at the man and purrs: "Would you like a flower for the nice lady?" If he says no with the slightest sign of hesitancy, she adds: "It looks SO lovely on her." If he doesn't respond to that, she places the flower under his nose and says: "Doesn't it smell nice?" By that time, he'll take the flower just to get rid of the girl. Gardenias which sell for one dollar are worth about 50 cents. Occasionally, a customer will give the girl a dollar without taking the flower, thinking he's giving her a break. Actually, everything she takes in goes to the boss.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Dim-out. The boulevard an eerie street of shadows, lights casting a faint glow — downward. The bright flowers of neon gone from the skies. Only yellow light now—downward.

The last of the "gala" premieres with lights, stars, flowers. "Pride of the Yankees." First of the dim-out premieres, "The Pied Piper." Stars, flowers, no lights.

Coons

The marquees dim out. You can still see who's in what picture but you can't get the twinkle and glow. There's some of the magic gone from marquees . . . .

Years ago, they say, Ethel Barrymore wept the first time she saw her name in lights. Ever since the electric age came, players have wept or thrilled, grinned or smiled complacently—according to individual temperament—at the sight of bulbs spelling out their own names for the first time. Every year there's a new crop, new names for the marquee-changers to learn. Every year some of the old ones fade from use. Not if they're in pictures, though. John Barrymore's name still shines in the dim-out. And Carole Lombard's . . .

Even in the dim-out Hollywood stars will keep on watching the marquees. Studio-affiliated theaters are bargain - bound to observe the order of billing in players' contracts, but "independent" houses bill the names that mean coin in the cash register. That is how Hollywood producers can get wise to who's really who—one of the ways.

They can remember how the marquees all over town blossomed with the name of Marie Dressler—with no mention of the star of the picture in which Marie was "support." They can remember how Clark Gable got star marquee billing—after he'd clicked but before the studio knew it. It was a movie called "Sporting Blood" in which a horse was starred, and Gable was the leading man. The "indies" had "discovered" Gable and put his name in lights—so that the studio quickly followed suit on billing.

INCUMBENTS IN LEAD AS STATES COUNT BALLOTS

Former GOP Keynoter and Ex-Huey Long Aid Take Big Majorities.

(By Associated Press)

Renomination appeared assured today to a wide majority of incumbents in national and state offices on the basis of unofficial returns from primary balloting in nine states and Georgia Democrats voted today.

Democrats in Louisiana gave a sweeping majority to Senator Allen Ellender, former lieutenant of the late Huey P. Long, in yesterday's primaries, and in Minnesota, Republicans presented wide leads to renomination efforts of Governor Harold E. Stassen and Senator Joseph H. Ball.

In Colorado, Senator Ed C. Johnson, assailed by his primary opponent, Justice Benjamin C. Hilliard, for what he termed pre-war isolationism and obstructionist tactics against President Roosevelt's administration, had a wide margin of votes for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Governor Ralph L. Carr won the Republican senatorial nomination without opposition. Nominees for four Colorado congressional seats and a senate vacancy caused by death of Alva B. Adams, Democrat, also were uncontested.

Governor Herbert R. O'Conor won renomination for a second term as Democratic chief executive of Maryland and in Vermont, U. S. Representative Charles A. Plumley took Republican renomination for the state's one house seat by nearly a two to one majority over Samuel R. Ogden, architect and former state legislator.

O'Conor, chairman of the Council of State Governors, will be opposed by Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, Baltimore attorney, who easily obtained the Republican nomination.

In primary balloting today, Georgia Democrats determine the outcome of Governor George Eugene Talmadge's bid for a fourth term in a campaign chiefly concerned with his claims to white supremacy.

Both Talmadge and his 35-year-old opponent for the nomination, State Attorney General Ellis Arnall, claimed victory. Ten congressmen and a senator, Richard B. Russell, jr., seek renomination.

"Arizona Democrats nominated Representative John R. Urdock for a fourth term and apparently designated Richard F. Harless, 37-year-old Maricopa county attorney, for the state's new second seat in the house. Governor Sidney P. Osborn was nominated for a second term over three opponents.

236 Get Driver Licenses on First Day, Club Reports.

The first day sale of driver's licenses by the Richland County Auto club fell far below that of the opening day last year when 605 licenses were issued against the 236 sold yesterday.

Wartime priorities coupled with the fact that many Richland county men have joined the armed forces in the past year are believed by Jack Berger, club secretary, to be responsible for the first day's decrease.

The county's estimated 21,000 drivers have until midnight Sept. 30 to obtain their licenses if they want to drive their car after that date. Berger said that all chauffeurs must have a new photograph with them when they appear for licenses this year.

During the first performance of a USO variety show for servicemen, O'Brien lost a porcelain crown from a front tooth.

Between acts, O'Brien asked if there were any dentists in the house who would fix his bridgework in a hurry. There were and they did.

In the wings were four majors, all dental graduates of Marquette university, O'Brien's alma mater. They rushed O'Brien to the dental clinic and moulded a temporary porcelain crown, enabling him to continue for the second show.

MUST SET DATE FOR PRIMARIES

Bricker Faced With Task of Setting Up Two Special Ohio Elections.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Governor Bricker today was faced with the problem of setting a date for two special primary elections in which voters of the 13th and 15th congressional districts, embracing 11 counties, will choose Republican and Democratic candidates for unexpired congressional terms which have less than two months to run.

The terms are those left vacant by the resignations of Rep. Robert T. Secrest, Caldwell Democrat representing the 15th district, and A. D. Baumhart, Vermilion Republican of the 13th district. Both resigned to accept naval commissions.

Bricker has expressed his desire to save the taxpayers money by having the special elections to fill the two short terms held in conjunction with the regular elections Nov. 3. If this procedure is followed, it means that the primary can be no later than Oct. 19, since it must precede the election by at least 15 days.

The shortness of the terms means that the winning candidates will collect only about $1,500 each in congressional salaries, although the primary election alone cost at least $35,000, Secretary of State John E. Sweeney estimated. He based his estimate on a cost of $50 for each of the 680 precincts in the two districts.

The winners of the election will serve only from about Nov. 12—Sweeney said it would take about eight days to certify the election—until the terms expire next Jan. 3. The law requires, however, that the special primaries and elections be held if there is a demand for them. The demand comes from the 13th district from Charles S. Fox, Fremont attorney and leader of Sandusky county young Republicans, who is an avowed candidate for Baumhart's unexpired term.

HOUSE MEETS TODAY TO WEIGH SOLDIERS' ABSENTEE VOTE BILL

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The house meets today to consider the soldiers' absentee vote bill with the question of whether congress can suspend voting qualifications in poll tax states hanging in balance. Although southern members are threatening to employ every parliamentary trick to delay the legislation, supporters of the bill claim the measure will be on the president's desk late this afternoon for his signature, thus clearing the way for men in the armed forces to vote by absent ballot in the November elections regardless of state laws.

Whether the southern bloc, headed by Rep. Rankin (D) Miss., will succeed in its delaying tactics, hinges on whether enough absent congressmen have returned to Washington to provide a quorum in the house.

The situation, as the house prepared to meet, was this:

1. More than a month ago the house passed a bill extending absentee voting privileges to men in the armed forces, and when the senate subsequently approved the measure it incorporated a controversial amendment giving the soldiers the right to vote without payment of poll tax in southern states requiring it as a prerequisite to casting a ballot.

2. The house, which has been in quasi-recess, has been operating since late July without a quorum, (218 members), and until today has not been able to accept or reject the senate changes because the southern bloc threatened to demand a quorum if the attempt was made.

Doris Jean, 16-year-old daughter of Plainclothesman Herbert G. Palmer has lost considerable of her interest in new styles in bracelets. While having lunch at a downtown restaurant yesterday her policeman father received an urgent summons to hurry to his home, 776 Maple street. Advised of the nature of the domestic disturbance, Palmer more leisurely completed his meal. He then sauntered to his car and drove slowly to his home. After a long and hearty laugh he proceeded to remove a pair of handcuffs from his daughter's wrists. "They hurt some, but I was just seeing how they look," the daughter explained. "They ain't toys," was the paternal retort.

One of the duties of County Agent George B. Ganyard is to help identify destructive bugs and worms that are brought to his office, but he had a collection of worms today that puzzled him. A woman found a new kind of pest feeding on her evergreen shrubs, not often damaged by worms, and collected several of them in a jar for the county agent's inspection. He decided the best way to identify them will be to send them to the Ohio Experiment station at Wooster.

PATTERSON SAYS OUTPUT PASSES AXIS

Scores Critics of American Equipment as 'Uninformed' During Cleveland Talk.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND — Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson said today that American planes and tanks are proving superior to Axis machines and criticism of their performance "comes from uninformed sources."

Speaking at the convention of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union, Patterson said U. S. plane production during August was larger than the total output of Germany, Italy and Japan, and that tank production had reached "an impressive figure" which would be doubled in December.

(In Ankara, Turkey, Wendell L. Willkie told a press conference that this country turned out 5,000 planes during August, 1,000 more than Germany. Sixty per cent of this output was pursuit planes, Willkie said. He predicted a monthly production of 10,000 planes within a year.)

Patterson answered criticism of American war material with specific records. Heavy bombers—Flying Fortresses and Liberators—"are the fastest high-altitude, long-range bombers now flying, and they have the heaviest fire power," he said. "Their performance on all battlefronts has been impressive."

"In pursuit planes, the Republic P-47 Thunderblot is by actual test the swiftest plane in the air, and the much-maligned Curtiss P-40 Hawks have proved better in combat than the Japanese Zero, no matter what some critics may say," he added. "The war department stands squarely behind this statement."

Actual combat records, Patterson said, showed that during August P-40's shot down 13 Zeros and four bombers with the loss of only two U. S. planes. During the same period the Airacombras shot down 13 Zeros, losing only four.

"The maneuverability of the Zero, good as it is, is more than offset by the P-40's armor protection and fire power," he said.

He said, however, that "we are by no means satisfied" with plane designs or production rates. Improvements are being made on both sides, but "we believe that we will be able to maintain and even to increase the lead which we have at present," he declared.

Ohio Poor Relief Costs Reach New Low In August

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Poor relief in Ohio cost only about $847,000 in August, nine per cent less than in July, which was a record low month since organized assistance for the needy was placed in effect a decade ago.

Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood estimated August's case load at about 29,200, a two per cent drop from July's 29,889. The number of relief recipients a year ago was 45,353 andt wo years ago 85,069.

The trend of relief may turn upward slightly this month, Sherwood said, because of the need of equipping many children for school and the later need for fuel in cold weather.

Relief cost $1,173,842 in August, 1941, and $1,888,764 in August, 1940. The relief bill for the first eight months of 1942 will be about $8,594,756 against $12,073,519 in the corresponding period last year.

Ashland councilmen this week adopted an emergency resolution for this levy in order that it might be certified to the board of elections in time to have it placed on the ballot in November.

The levy on the ballot will be worded for "recreational purposes" for a period of five years, but funds will be used principally toward maintaining Brookside park. The estimated two-tenths mill levy would bring in approximately $4,000 per year.

A total appropriation of $8,075 was allowed in the city budget for park expenditures this year of which $7,224 has already been used and it is estimated that an additional $1,000 will be needed to complete the year.

ASHLAND — Total enrollment in Ashland city schools, which opened yesterday, was 2,433. This is 39 pupils less than a year ago.

Enrollment in the high school was 1,232 as compared to last year's enrollment of 1,269 and enrollment in the five grade schools and one special school was 1,201 as compared to 1,212 of a year ago.

One vacancy still exists in the Ashland high school faculty, that of mechanical drawing instructor, but Supt. J. E. Bohn expects it to be filled this week. Another vacancy at Arthur street school has been filled by Miss Evelyn Fleming of Cincinnati.

CRAWFORD BOND SALES TOTALED

Question President's Power To Act

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S ultimatum to congress, demanding quick action to head off further rises in farm prices as an anti-inflation measure, is meeting expected objections from congressmen who were apparently annoyed by the October 1 deadline set by the president.

This October 1 date, it is noted, is little more than a month in advance of the November 3 election and all indications had pointed to congressional intention to stave off legislation on such controversial issues until AFTER election.

In his message to congress, and in the address the same evening, the president did little more than give delayed expression to what has been known right along—that there can be no effective price control without preventing steady rises in farm prices and wages.

On these two points there has been obvious reluctance to act, or even to speak frankly, and it may be doubted if either the president or congress is yet ready to take such action as will be necessary to put anti-inflationary ceilings over farm prices and wages, in which neither could function properly without the other.

Views on the president's wartime power to freeze farm prices at or near parity, without congressional action, must also be at considerable variance, with Ohio Senator Taft quoted as saying: "If these powers are assumed without legislation I should not hesitate to advise any man that his patriotic duty is to refuse obedience of any order issued under them."

This matter of the extent of wartime powers of the president of the United States is something that might better be settled without too much popping off by senators and congressmen, as, after all, there's a war being fought and there are some things that must be done quickly—congress to the contrary notwithstanding. The Axis powers will not consent to a recess until after election.

Education Will Be Post-War Need

THIS is "back to school" week in Mansfield and Richland county's schools and many thousands of children are trooping back to class rooms for another nine months of study and instruction.

Six-year-olds will enter school for the first time, and these, with others of the younger pupils, are fortunate in the prospect of having at least a few carefree years unmarred by the worries and uncertainties that already beset their older brothers and sisters.

A notable feature in America's equality of opportunity is the emphasis placed on providing basic education for all children, through public schools built and maintained by taxation.

This was one of the early aspirations of the founders of American democracy, who recognized that a self-governing people must be educated from early childhood for the later responsibilities of citizenship.

While the ideal of equal educational facilities throughout the country has not yet been attained there has been steady progress toward that goal, and Ohio is among the states in which no child need be deprived of an education through high school, if physically and mentally competent to carry on the work.

Whatever changes may come about as a result of war, there can be no doubt that victory by the United Nations will be followed by an era in which ability based on sound education will be even more vitally important than in the past, as vast fields of opportunity will open for men and women who are prepared to assume new and greater responsibilities.

The war has brought many maladjustments, due to requirement for military service by several million young men, and there will probably be several million others who must temporarily change their plans to conform to the national need for armed forces.

This should be regarded as no more than an interlude, however, and the main objective not lost sight of—preparation to serve creditably and efficiently in the peacetime period that is to follow.

It's 'War Work' for Everybody Now

WITH SONS and neighbors' sons going to the war and ever-growing restrictions, most people know that the boundary between citizen and soldier is growing ever narrower. This is well put by Walter D. Binger and Hilton H. Railey, authors of a new book, "What the Citizen Should Know About Civilian Defense." They say: "In the United States today there are only four forces—the army, the navy, the air force and the home force. In the ultimate sense there are no civilians."

Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph I. Greene, commenting on this statement, improves on it by stating: "There is only one force, the nation as a whole, and it has four main parts working together for victory—the army, the navy, the air force and the home force."

Whether stationed in field or factory, house or drill ground, all citizens are soldiers now.

Start Saving for Income Tax

THE GOVERNMENT'S plan to require employers to hold back five per cent of employes' earnings, as advance payment on income tax, will not become effective until next January 1, so income taxes due next March 15 on 1942 earnings must be paid in the regular way—out of a reserve which individuals save for that purpose.

It is being given out as a friendly tip—and none too soon—that the income tax on this year's earnings will be a big jump from the amount required last March 15 and that it will be wise for everybody to get an idea of what the approximate total will be, on the basis of probable earnings this year, so as to budget this item through the year instead of having it come as a shock next spring.

The Toledo Blade's Jack Warwick clears a myth by personally vouching for the fact that "you don't have to be intellectual to have hay fever."

Singing telegrams are to be stopped—but it may be noted that Jimmy Petrillo deserves none of the credit for this.

Unheard remark: "I'm certainly glad that my daughter started to smoke cigarets."

AN ALARM CLOCK FOR ALL AMERICANS

Wire Merger Is Opposed By CIO

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

I'VE BEEN wondering if somebody wouldn't finally make a few remarks in opposition to the proposed Western Union and Postal Telegraph merger, as a war-time measure. The other day CIO Chief Philip Murray got around to doing it, at a meeting of the American Communications association, which shouldn't be confused with Federal Communications commission.

The FCC's for the merger. Ray C. Wakefield, one of its members, is on record to the effect not only that it would vastly improve wire service in the United States, but that it would be a "long stride" toward making this country the "communications center of the world."

Phil Murray denounced the scheme as "Wall Street inspired." Other ACA officials agreed with him. They were emphatic enough when they got around to expressing themselves, but they were a trifle belated in doing so; the plan's already pending in congress.

One needs to be about 100 years old to remember when the Western Union was an airtight monopoly in the United States. I'm not ancient enough myself to be personally familiar with the merits of the popular complaints concerning it, but I can recall 'em.

Cussed Far and Wide.

It undoubtedly was the most cussed-at institution in the whole history of our era of practically unregulated big utilities. In its particular line it was, of course, a vital necessity to the entire American public, and it was accused of taking every imaginable advantage of it—financially, as a convenience and in every other detail.

Big and little alike, its customers damned it without qualification. Yet they were as dependent on it as they were on the post-office, but with none of the post-office's limitations. Yet they couldn't do anything about it—not until the Mackay family broke into the situation with the organization of Postal.

The Postal was just getting fairly ticking as I emerged upon the journalistic scene, with news telegrams to file from the South Dakota legislature to my home town daily, so that's how I know what wire communications were like in those days.

Telegraphic patronage simply fell on the Postal's neck and wept with joy and affection. It was out after business and consequently was especially accommodating. On the opposite hand, the Western Union, presumably scared by the new competition, turned a whole lot nicer, and Postal got the credit for it, even in places where Postal still was unavailable.

The distinction between 'em wore off gradually, although personally I've never quite survived the feeling that the Postal was a kind of a benefactor of the human race originally, and still is entitled to a certain amount of consideration on account of it.

It is explainable, then, why an old-timer isn't enthusiastic over the return to the by-gone one-company system?

If congress were to decree that telegraphy essentially is governmentally postal, as is done generally in Europe, that would be one thing. Merging Western and Postal into a single private corporation again, however, is something different.

As a war measure, perhaps it's logical.

But will it lapse when the war's over?

The same thing applies to a lot of these suggested industrial consolidations.

They'll make for emergency efficiency, probably.

But will we ever get over 'em?—or recover from 'em, in subsequent peacetimes, or are they here to stay forever?—doctoring our whole socio-economic-governmental system into something new entirely?

The state of California was admitted to the Union on this date in 1850. Immigration by sea and land in the single year 1849 raised the population from 6,000 to 85,000 and this, of course, was due to the gold seekers who heard of the richness of the deposits and soon abandoned their business's to seek their fortunes in the west.

'Perfect' Marriages

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE is no state more dangerous or demoralizing for a human being than that situation termed a "perfectly happy marriage."

Mind you, I'm not saying that there can't or shouldn't be happy marriages—vigorous, vital human unions which broaden our horizons and develop our characters. Such a union is the loveliest, the most desirable relationship in life.

But that isn't the sort of thing we usually mean when we say—"a perfectly happy marriage." We mean a condition of complete contentment in which there is neither conflict nor criticism—in which two hearts "beat as one," sharing the same opinions, interests and prejudices.

The kind of union which permits a wife to boast, "We've never spent a night apart in 20 years of marriage. Ed wouldn't dream of going anywhere without asking me, even to lodge meeting."

Or which allows a husband to brag, "The Little Woman's never pulled a tantrum on me yet. Thank God I haven't one of those managing females—always nagging. I run things according to my ideas, and Maria keeps her finger outta the pie."

This sort of thing, I maintain, is worse for our human nature than any amount of grief, shock or hardship, and is responsible for more cussedness than all of the booze, drugs and gambling and wicked ladies put together.

No human being, either married or single, could receive such coddling without becoming a Public Pest—conceited, cowardly and utterly contemptible. There is no person more difficult or exasperating to work with than such a protected, pampered husband or wife.

We SHOULDN'T be contented. We SHOULDN'T be sure of each other's approval—or safe from each other's adverse criticism.

We NEED conflict and criticism. We NEED separations and misunderstandings, disagreements and rumpuses.

We need these things for our mental hygiene. A life that is never stirred up STAGNATES, as surely and horribly as water that is never stirred up.

We need differences, in us and between us. Challenging differences. Love atrophies without such differences—loses its zest and allure.

We need—how desperately we need!—PRIVATE LIVES. PRIVATE PERSONALITIES. We need, above everything else in marriage, to BE OURSELVES. It is our fundamental duty and right.

Our bodies need time by themselves. Our minds need time by themselves. The constant, clinging intimacy which some men and women so admire, is NOT beautiful—not even decent. Nor is it a sign of affection. It is a sign of IMMATURITY.

The person who can't bear to be alone hasn't grown up. He or she is a tiresome infant, and should be treated accordingly. No person is fit to marry who has not learned to live alone at times—and permit the Other Fellow to do likewise.

Most marriages fail not because the pair are cruel or unfaithful, but because they try to make marriage a refuge from life.

They try to find in marriage all those privileges and protections and pettings which life, rightly, refuses to grant normal human beings. They are forced in the factory or office, shop or studio, to face the normal tests and take the normal beatings. Marriage seems a haven for all such unpleasantness. Joyously they create a Paradise, according to their private specifications. And proceed to pamper themselves ad lib.

As a consequence, they rapidly become so anti-social, so generally detestable, that they Can't Endure Each Other Another Minute.

Beware of a Perfectly Happy Marriage! If you aren't a pain-in-the-neck already, a Perfectly Happy Marriage will make you one within a week.

Final Defeat Must Be on Ground, Analysts of German Morale Aver

—By FREDERICK C. OECHSNER

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S declaration that the power of Germany must be broken "on the battlefields of Europe" will represent to many persons a heartening grasp of the realities involved in this war—"the toughest war of all time."

I cannot recall a single qualified neutral observer of Germany's military establishment who ever felt that the Nazis could be defeated decisively anywhere except on the ground. Air-bombing, yes; by all means and in ever-increasing strength as we gradually assert our air mastery over the western theater of war. Thousand-plane raids to strike and cripple German war production at vital points, such as the most recent blow at Duisburg, the reich's great inland-waterways harbor, should be continued.

But it remains the conviction of most foreigners who know Germany from the inside that the nation can no more be subdued by air-power alone at the present stage of its development than a Maginot line fort could be reduced by Nazi Stuka pounding alone.

It was always the ground troops which knocked them out after preliminary softening up from the air, and the same thing will doubtless be true of the fort that is Germany. In other words, invasion at one or more of those "dozen points" the president referred to—invasion when our military leaders are convinced that we have assembled enough strength to do it successfully.

DEFEAT of the German forces in the field is also an imperative psychological necessity. Hitler told the German people and convinced many of them that they had not "militarily" lost the war of 1914-1918 when German troops retired in perfect order under an armistice; he told them that what had cost them the victory was being stabbed in the back at home by Jews and Socialists. This time there must be no uncertainty about it; the pride and prestige of German arms must be lowered in battle. It is that pride and prestige—and also the mortal fear of what defeat will mean to them politically—which activates them today and will go on doing so even when half their cities are laid in ruins by air attack.

News reports bear out the note of encouragement of the recent past. Despite a frontal attack on Stalingrad of a ferocity which exceeds even the violence of the last several days—an attack launched by 1,500 planes and as many as 100 tanks at a time, according to the Russian reports—the Nazis have not staggered the Soviet defenders. However, the Nazis have dented the Soviet line due west of the city and are making progress near the Black sea base of Novorossisk.

The simple truth remains that the Germans have not yet reached the point they had hoped and planned to reach last winter. A year ago in Berlin, persons in a position to know the general outline of German tactics were speaking of the "A-A line" (Archangel to Astrakhan) which they would be "satisfied" to reach and hold for the winter.

It is still too early to reckon on what the coming winter may mean for the Germans, but last winter bit deep into the morale of the troops and the nation at home. Out there on the easternmost front, the weather will already have begun to sharpen noticeably and snow may fall in another month.

WITH the forcing back of Rommel's first assault on the British lines outside Alexandria, and our continued repulse of Japanese air jabs at the Solomons, the enemy is continuing to receive evidence of the impact of American offensive spirit.

It is too early to say that we have done more than help to ease the situation, but every setback of the enemy at this stage of our effort is of tremendous value in rolling up that psychological and physical momentum which Hitler has always counted upon as of such importance in confusing and defeating his enemies.

Watching Trends

—By JOHN GROVER

WASHINGTON—Breakdown of national crime statistics by the FBI shows that American gals are stepping right in to pinch-hit for their brothers in the law-breaking business.

The records show that during the first six months of 1942, 10.2 per cent of all offenders arrested were women, an increase over 1941, when 9.1 of those arrested were females. (The FBI says, however, that the apparent increase may be due to better statistical reporting of female crime by co-operating agencies.)

The war is reflected in the marked increase in sex crimes. With thousands of men away from home, and conditions generally upset, the index of rape cases increased by 9.9 per cent in the first six months of 1942 as compared with the similar period in 1941.

MORE "party money" is in circulation, and the 9.4 per cent increase in negligent manslaughter mirrors increased drunken operation of motor vehicles.

Auto thefts, presumably because fewer cars are on the street, and because operation of a car without proper gasoline credentials is difficult, showed a 1.6 per cent reduction for the half year.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation noted that there are 175 auxiliary police for every 100 regular police officers in cities over 25,000.

Over the whole country, the score of arrests showed criminals were arrested for 27.7 per cent of the crimes reported.

Larceny and automobile theft were the "safest" crimes, from the standpoint of the criminal. Arrests were made in 24.4 per cent of the auto theft cases and 22.7 per cent of the larcenies. Murder was the toughest rap to beat, with 88.1 per cent of the murderers arrested. The same high percentage held in manslaughter, where 86.6 per cent of the killers were caught, and in rape, where 76.2 per cent of the offenders were jailed.

MURDER was a favorite pastime in the southern part of the United States. The east south central states reported 8.65 murders per 100,000 population for the highest homicide rate in the country. New Englanders were the least lethal, the murder rate being only 0.59 per 100,000.

The same east south central states had the worst robbery index, with 44.4 per 100,000, and the New England group again was the purest, with 6.1 robberies in 100,000 population.

Broadly speaking, the survey also showed that crime was most prevalent in those sectors having the lowest numbers of police officers. The east south central states, having 1.26 peace officers per 1,000, second lowest in the country, had the highest crime rates generally. New England, on the other hand, had the best crime record, and reported two officers for each 1,000 people, second highest in the nation.

Proved Their Point

NEW YORK — Ed Wynn, Tilly Losch, Bert Wheeler, Helen Hayes, Larry Adler, John Hoysradt, Paul Draper, Jane Froman—say, I can name all those people on the bill. It was Rockland county's Russian relief benefit, and it was tremendous.

But I especially wanted to call attention to one high moment in the show that went something like this. Helen Hayes was going to enact the famous final scene from "Mary of Scotland," which her friend and neighbor, Maxwell Anderson, wrote.

Ed Wynn, who was the master of ceremonies, was just about to introduce the show when two little girls, holding hands, came on the stage and interrupted Mr. Wynn. "We think we're better qualified to announce this next scene than you," one of the little girls said.

"Is that so?" cried Mr. Wynn, with one of his giggles, "and who do you think you are — Helen Hayes?"

"No," the little girl told him, "but I'm Helen Hayes' daughter . . ." Just at that moment the other little girl cried, "And I'm Maxwell Anderson's daughter, and since my father wrote the play, and since Mary Hayes's mother is going to act in it, we think we ought to do the announcing."

I leave it to you to imagine the applause when these two little girls got through with Ed Wynn.

NOT all of Irving Berlin's successes have been without their headaches. That gorgeous number, "Easter Parade," once landed him in a costly lawsuit . . . Years ago, maybe 20 years or so ago, Berlin wrote a tune that seemed pretty at the time but nothing much ever happened to it. It was published by an English firm, and Berlin forgot all about it. Years later a curious strain began to go around his brain . . . He had no idea what it was. He thought he had invented something new. This became "Easter Parade," and when it became a great hit this English firm sued Berlin, accusing him of lifting songs from HIMSELF. It was the first such instance in musical history. Berlin, who laughs about this today, was a much surprised composer at the time. He transferred some of the profits of "Parade" to the English firm.

THERE is the kill-an-hour group in New York, and this makes it easy for the third run movie managers of Sixth and other avenues. They never have to worry what movies they book because their patronage never changes anyway. These people will attend a certain theater every week regardless of whether the film is a month or five years old, it doesn't matter. I saw a Jack Holt picture that was nine years old at one of these houses the other day. Admission: 15 cents. The manager can tell you within $5 what his week's receipts will be six months from now. But he hasn't any idea what films he will be showing. It's like the subway. The doors open, and the people go in. Must be wonderful.

A Farmer's Diary

Schoolboy—1942

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AT A CROSSROADS, far out in the rolling country, I saw a boy of about 16, waiting for the school bus. I stopped to inquire where he went to school.

"About six miles east of here, at the village of L—" the lad told me. He had a thin face and dark, expressive eyes. I liked him. "This is our first day," he added. "The bus is s'posed to be along at eight."

"Do you live on a farm?" I wondered.

"Yes—a hundred acres, and only my dad and me to do all the work. We have silo to fill yet, and corn to cut, eight acres of potatoes to dig and a field of soybeans to harvest. Dad told me I wouldn't get to school every day, yet a while."

"You're the only child?"

"My two brothers enlisted in the navy last spring, and now we don't even hear from 'em any more. I told Mom if I was just older, no one'd keep me from going. Why, you might travel almost all over the world and not cost you a cent—you'd even get paid for' seein' new things Mom and Dad say many soldier're goin' to get killed and it's dangerous, and I'd get homesick. . . .

"But I tell 'em it's dangerous livin' on a farm. Elmer Hence, up here, got killed when the mules ran off, when he was mowing. Not a nice death, either. Two boys of the Brown family was crushed in an auto accident and it wasn't even their own fault. One of the Smith kids died of cholera, from eatin' green apples. O'course there's bound to be some gold stars! But what family'd want to keep their good strong boys at home when they're needed to save the country? What'd they feel like when the war is over and the soldiers come home? I'll never make my parents feel that way.

"I know 20 boys that left from right around here, and I envied every one. I'd likely get homesick, but a fellow has to leave home sometime and he has to die sometime! I'd rather die doing something worth while than on a pleasure trip.

"I'm studying physics and chemistry this year and I'm goin' strong for athletics and all the math I can get. It's those things I'll need the most to be a bombardier . . . goodbye, now, here's my bus."

He waved to me from the lower step, his boyish face aglow with dreams.

UNFAIR ADVANTAGE +

CHAPTER XX

So they went back to the beginning, Paul doing most of the talking, Amy putting in a word now and then. They tried to make Guy see the unfair advantage Marcia, in her mistaken generosity, had taken of Paul. Paul blamed himself for having drifted into an understanding with her.

"I didn't know what love was then," he declared. "I didn't know I was going to love Amy. It just came on me—like that. Love isn't a thing you plan."

"No, you don't plan love," Guy said with curious gentleness, tapping a cigaret with a brown forefinger and watching the ashes fall into the tray. "But look here, Paul, you can't make a fool of Marcia. She's too good for that!"

Paul looked incredulous. "You mean that just because Marcia's a good girl I'm supposed to marry her, to break my heart and Amy's to go ahead pretending I love her? That isn't decent!"

"No, it's not," Guy admitted. "The whole thing's absurd. I don't know that I have any right to advise you. You should have come out with it sooner. I can't see why you didn't. After all an engagement's not binding as a marriage. It ought to be a trial time. You ought to be able then to acknowledge a mistake, if you've made one. But with things as they are now, I don't see what you can do but let it drift."

"Hang around here and pretend?" Paul said bitterly.

"No," Guy hesitated. "But you could go away immediately. You've said you were going to enlist. Why not enlist sooner than you had intended? It wouldn't be as though you were enlisting merely to get away. You'd only be moving the date forward."

"Perhaps it's an idea," Paul said slowly. "Better than to carry on this farce. . . . Listen!" He lifted his hand for silence.

The front door opened and closed softly.

"Come on in, Frani," he called. "We hear you."

They waited, but there was no further sound, then from far back in the silent depths of the big house came a wild shriek, "Da-a-ddy! Daddy!"

Guy got to the nursery first. When Amy and Paul reached there he was lifting Frani from the floor. Or was that Frani? That wild creature with the straggling black hair and the mashed hat and the red smear of lipstick across her teeth?

"Get out of here!" Guy commanded in a voice that was not Guy's at all—it was so hot with hate and loathing. "Get out of here!"

She drew back, glaring at him through half closed eyes. "You talk that way to me! You—you—"

She struck him hard across the mouth.

Daphne screamed again then. Then she began to cry piteously, her breath coming in gasps.

Guy, holding Frani in an iron grip, carried her from the room. Daphne got out of bed, stood for a moment on her hurt leg, then fell.

Amy ran to Daphne, who lay on the floor, sobbing, and carried her back to bed. Evidently Guy had not heard her fall. Probably he was too occupied with forcing the struggling Frani back to her room. Paul went downstairs to get Nurse Bolton who has having a late supper.

Miss Bolton examined the child quickly. "I don't believe she's hurt," she said, "But you'd better call Dr. Ames, Miss Tudor."

When at length Amy got Dr. Ames at the hospital it seemed to her that his voice over the wire was peculiarly cold. She stammered as she told him that Daphne had got out of bed and fallen.

She heard him swear under his breath. "How did she happen to do that?" he said. "I'll be right out."

Guy had left Frani under Paul's care by that time and was waiting with Daphne. She wouldn't let him leave her, and insisted too that "Tudor" stay with her.

"It's outlandish," Guy said, "that a child with so many people around her should still have a feeling of insecurity!"

Dr. Ames expressed almost the same sentiment when he came in. He examined Daphne's leg.

"For this," he declared, "the young lady will have to stay in bed at least a month longer. Good lord! What kind of a house is this! Who let her up? Aren't there enough of you to keep one child in bed!

"Where was Miss Bolton?"

"It wasn't Miss Bolton's fault," Guy said quickly. "She'd gone downstairs for her supper. I was here with Daphne. I—ah—I turned my back and she jumped out of bed."

But Guy had reckoned without Daphne who piped up, "Mother came in and acted funny. And Daddy tried to hold her. And she swapped him. She swapped him twice."

Again Daphne's eyes filled with tears. They overflowed and ran down her plump cheeks.

"She's had a shock," Guy told Dr. Ames quietly. And then to Daphne he said, "Mother didn't feel well and she acted the way you do sometimes when you're tired and mad. Maybe, Dr. Ames can fix her up too."

Amy noticed then how Dr. Ames' fine strong sensitive surgeon's hands trembled as he opened his bag and took out a bottle.

"You might give her this," Dr. Ames said.

Guy said, "Perhaps it might be a good thing if you were to see her."

Dr. Ames snapped his bag shut and was his brusque, debonair self again. "Sorry, but I've got to hurry back to the hospital. See you all tomorrow."

After he had gone Paul came in to announce that Frani had quieted down.

"Here's something the doctor left for her," Guy said. "You might take it to her."

Something in his strong quiet face told Amy that Frani had at last done the thing he had feared, the thing for which he couldn't forgive her.

The house was quiet the next morning, but it was a quiet that might be broken by eruptions at any moment. Guy and Frani went into the study soon after breakfast and Amy saw nothing more of either of them. Daphne asked for "Tudor" and so Amy went to her being careful to lock her closet so that the maids wouldn't see the empty coat hangers and the two packed suitcases.

Shutting the door upon them was shutting the door upon a dream. Soon she would have been unpacking them in a cabin in the mountains. She and Paul all alone with a crackling wood fire and the smell of breakfast bacon and coffee.

While Amy read to her, Daphne did not, as usual, clap her hands or laugh or look furious as the action of the story demanded. Instead she lay very still, her eyes wide and solemn.

She insisted that Amy have lunch with her there beside her bed. And before she would close her eyes for her afternoon nap she begged, "You'll stay right here beside me all the time, won't you, Tudor?"

Amy promised and that gave her an excuse for not entertaining Marcia when she came in soon after lunch. She did tiptoe to the nursery door but the necessity for speaking in half whispers gave no opportunity for confidences.

"Where's Paul?" Marcia asked.

Amy shook her head. She was wondering too for she hadn't seen him that day.

War-Time Frocks Slim and Sleek

By SUSAN BARDEN
(International Illustrated News Writer)

You'll need to watch the curves this season. The new fabric-saving L-85 styles have no puffs or folds or nice full skirts to hide your figure faults; on the contrary, their slim, sleek lines are definitely figure-revealing.

Since only harmonious body lines will do justice to gowns which accent the waistline, swathe the hips, and depend on a good bustline for the grace of their bodice draping, your foundation garments must do the job of sculpturing your torso.

This season a visit to your corsetiere to get everything under control before you introduce your figure to the new fall fashions will pay real dividends in grace and chic.

The new foundation garments designed under wartime manufacturing requirements for wear under your priorities frocks have proved a pleasant surprise to women who were disturbed by rumors of a return to the rigid corset of Grandmother's day. Thanks to American ingenuity, the new styles have been cleverly worked out to make the most of every precious inch of elastic, with the result that they still do as excellent job of figure control without sacrifice of comfort or freedom.

The three outfits shown in the above photographs definitely show how important slim lines are going to be for the new clothes.

The close-hauled styling which distinguishes the smart black frock (center) makes a well-corseted figure a pre-requisite for an attractive appearance. Simple lines, with tucked skirt front and soft draped neck, accent the chic patterning of the fine rayon matelasse crepe.

Another figure-revealing model (left) that has flattering feminine styling is the two-piece, slender-lined daytime frock of soft draping matte finished rayon crepe. The bodice is smooth, and the hip and skirt lines have a molded treatment.

The third dress (right) is an attractive interpretation of the wartime silhouette. It is made in fine gray blue rayon crepe, with triple folds of self-fabric used to accent the long torso styling. The closely molded line of the maillot-type bodice and slim skirt makes good corseting a must for the woman who would do justice to its sleek charm.

Try Creamed Corn Soup For Lunch

By BETSY NEWMAN

Luncheon is "finish up" meal in almost any house, I suppose, except where there is a guest or two. Cheese that has become dry can be cut fine or grated and creamed to serve over toast; or it can be sliced thin and put in sandwiches which are then toasted. Leftover vegetables can also be creamed and served over toast or served in salads. Cream soups are another favorite dish for this meal, as they too can be made with leftover vegetables. Cream of corn soup is very good made with the leftover corn on hand.

Today's Menu.

Breakfast.

Tomato Juice
Cereal with Top Milk
Poached Eggs on Whole Wheat Toast
Coffee Milk

Luncheon.

Cream of Corn Soup Crackers
Baked Apples
Bread and Butter
Tea Milk

Dinner.

Bohemian Spaghetti Broccoli
Fresh Fruit Salad
Caramel Pudding
Crackers Coffee

Cream of Corn Soup.

Leftover corn on cob.
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
1 pint milk
Salt, pepper

Cut corn from cob. Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and blend, then gradually add milk, stirring until thickened; add corn. Season with a dash of pepper and ½ teaspoon salt.

Bohemian Spaghetti.

1 package spaghetti
1 12-oz. can corned beef
1 onion, chopped
1 clove garlic
¼ lb. mushrooms
3 tablespoons bacon fat
1 can tomato paste
2 cups water
1 minced green pepper
1 tablespoon salt
Dash pepper
Buttered bread crumbs

Fry onion, garlic, mushrooms and green pepper in bacon fat; remove garlic, add corned beef, tomato paste, water and seasoning and heat through. Cook spaghetti in boiling, salted water until tender—15 to 20 minutes, drain and mix spaghetti with other ingredients. Put all in buttered baking dish, sprinkle with bread crumbs and bake in slow oven (350 degrees F.) for 15 minutes. Serve 6 to 8.

Fruit Salad.

1 diced apple
1 peeled, diced pear
½ cup nut meats
2 diced, peeled peaches
Lettuce
Salad dressing

Mix all fruit together, moisten with mayonnaise or French dressing and serve on lettuce. Grapefruit, bananas or oranges may be added if desired. Grapes make a nice addition to a fruit salad. Serves 6.

Caramel Pudding.

1 pint milk
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup brown corn syrup
½ teaspoon salt

Scald milk in top part of double boiler over hot water, stir in cornstarch which has been blended to a paste with some cold milk, add syrup that has been cooked with 1 teaspoon butter until it is brown, add salt. Cook until thick and cool. Serve with or without cream. Serves 4.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Sept. 10.

Judging by the lunar domination, this day there may be excellent opportunities for increasing the financial status, with sound security for credits and standing, by means of good judgment and tactful approach to those in high places for support and friendship. This may eventually lead to tokens of esteem in wills, gifts or bequests. Offsetting this, however, there are omens of anxiety, bereavement or other distress of an intimate or family nature.

Those whose birthday it is may find a year of splendid opportunity for mending their credit or increasing the financial status, with the friendly co-operation of influential personages. This may attain such growth and tokens of preferment as to inspire eventual bequests, gifts or other valuable consideration. The physical and emotional energies may need conservation.

A child born on this day should be efficient, talented and ambitious, attracting the interests and solid co-operation of those in high places. It may suffer in its health emotional tension.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

"This is so good of you, Mrs. Graham," the manager of the Lansfield said, trying hard to keep up the suave, authoritative attitude, tinged with deference, which is the stock-in-trade of the successful Boniface.

Bewildered as to what my father wished me to do, although sure Mr. Milner was the person with whom my father wanted me to deal, I could only play a parrying game.

"Will you not sit down?" I asked.

"No, thank you; I haven't time for that," he replied. "My errand is urgent."

"You wished to ask me something?" I prodded.

"Yes, I did," he answered, "and I trust you will not be disturbed or offended."

"I am not easily disturbed or offended," I answered steadily, "unless there is grave reason for offense."

Asks For Redfield.

"It is vital that I see Stephen Redfield immediately," he said. "I have been searching for him everywhere, but cannot find him, so I have come to you. Is he here?"

I had my cue now—to delay him in every way possible until I could get my father into the room.

"Really, Mr. Milner," I said icily. "You must realize that a question like that, and at this hour, is an insult. I ought not to answer it, but I shall. Stephen Redfield is not in this apartment."

The malevolence in his look told me that the necessity now goading him was shattering his carefully built-up mask.

"He was a few minutes ago," he said. Your husband knocked him down in this very room, I've been told. That, of course, is none of my affair, but if he is conscious I must see him."

I was convinced that he knew who dealt the blow to Redfield, but was deliberately substituting Dicky for Noel because of Philip Veritzen's ownership of the Lansfield. I was angry enough to give him a blow such as Noel gave Redfield, and when I saw him edging toward my bedroom with the evident intention of looking into it, and realized that his next move probably would be toward the adjoining apartment, I knew it was time to signal my father.

"Where are you going?" I demanded. "Don't advance another step!" Then, as he made a swift dash for the bedroom door, I gave a scream just loud enough to reach my father's listening ears.

Milner turned at my scream, patently uncertain whether to play his role of solicitous, misunderstood hotel executive, or to throttle me into silence. Before he could decide, the camouflaged door flew open and Dicky and my father rushed in.

Dicky Plays a Role.

"What's the matter, darling?" my husband demanded, advancing on Milner threateningly, but clearly playing a role under my father's instructions. Otherwise the suave manager of the Lansfield would already be measuring his length on the floor.

I watched my father's eyes for their signal and framed my answer accordingly.

"Nothing at all," I answered. "You know how I hate spiders, and I just found one crawling on my arm. I am afraid I startled Md. Milner terribly."

I turned to the manager apologetically, and saw a shrewd, speculative look in his warily watchful eyes.

"It was bad enough not to be able to give you the information you wished," I said smoothly, "without frightening you by my foolish hysteria. But," with a malicious smile, "perhaps you would like to ask the same question of my father—or my husband."

Posture Is Important To Beauty

By MME. QUI VIVE

Girls in uniform are posture conscious as they have never been before. A good thing. They're soldiers working in the cause of freedom. They must look soldierly. Poor posture has been the besetting beauty sin ever since the corset was chucked into the discard twenty years ago. Too bad that it is taking a war to correct it.

The splendidly carried body does, as a rule, carry a courageous spirit. You can tell by the way a woman walks whether or not she has stamina, sturdiness of character, backbone. When little Miss Useless slouches along, chest caved in, arms forward and feet shuffling you know pretty well what a washout she is. Sidesteps duties. Hasn't any ambition. Looking for a good time. No ginger in the heels. Often not an idea in her head.

Look at the wayfarers in the buyways. Observe the different means of getting where they are going—stalking, loping, toddling, scampering. The woman with head on the level, shoulders squared, step firm, tummy in and chest up impresses you as a personality, one who gets things done, lives intensely, finds life bouyant and worth while.

Erect carriage makes for spirit, spirit makes for carriage. One helps create the other.

Upon mind and muscle good posture depends. One must have a feeling of pride, a desire to appear as splendid as one can. The body must be strong, musculature firm and elastic. It is especially necessary that the large fibers of the back be resilient. You get them that way by keeping the backbone stretched full length and doing your exercises. We must give more time to physical education, which should go on through the years, if the body is to remain supple, youthful, slender.

Tlibi Alice will tell you why she does not exercise. You'll get a good laugh out of that. She says she doesn't want biceps, and she is afraid of developing big knots in the calves of her legs.

Poor posture may be due to impaired ligaments, just as weakened fibers may be caused by poor posture. Again we have the vicious circle.

Bent shoulders, contracted chest, the flaccid back suggest despair and failure, lack of initiative. Erect carriage is the up and at 'em attitude, of which we have need at the present moment.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHOW HIM YOUR ENTRY

Your partner's bidding and first few plays may show you the desirability of having an entry, so you may make some particular lead at the right stage of the defense. If you have such an entry, it can pay you to show its location to him, by means of a low or high discard on some trick, by a high-low signal in following to a particular suit, or otherwise. Thus you enable him to plan his own defense efficiently, and at the expense of the declarer.

	♠ A ♥ Q 4 3 ♦ Q 6 2 ♣ A K 10 9 8 6

3 ♣	3 ♦	Pass	3 ♥

East decided to leave that double in, for fear he and his partner had terrific misfit hands and that further bidding from him might only cause deeper trouble North took his club K and then, after looking at the dummy, was torn between two ideas. Would he jeopardise his own trump Q by leading a heart to prevent West from ruffing a club in dummy? Or would he lay down his spade A, with the idea that he might get a ruff or two himself? He decided on playing his spade A, then led the diamond 2, which West took with the K.

As expected, West then ruffed the club 3 with the dummy's lone heart, called the diamond A and got back to his own hand with a diamond ruff. He laid down the heart A and then the heart J. There was the crucial trick, deciding whether the contract went down one or two tricks, but North didn't know it. He played low, letting South win with the K. South now cashed the club J and returned his spade J, which North ruffed with the heart Q. That ended the trick-taking by the defenders, and West was down only one, the defense getting two tricks with clubs, one with the spade A and two with their trumps, one of which was the ruff with the heart Q.

If North had looked closely, he would have seen South put the 5 on the first club lead, and the 4 on the later one, which West ruffed. That should have told North that South had either a doubleton or the club J, which could be an entry. Had he done that, he should have taken the eighth trick, to which West led the heart J, with his Q. He then could have put South in the lead with a small club to the J and South could have returned a spade to be ruffed by the heart 4. Later South would have scored his heart K. In other words, North, by letting South win the first trump led to his side had nothing to ruff with but his Q. By taking the first heart himself, however, North would have been able to ruff with a small card and thus the side's trumps would have scored three tricks instead of two.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ J 10 3 ♥ A 7 6 4 ♦ Q J 8 ♣ A J 6

(Dealer, North. Neither side vulnerable.)

If you passed East's hand originally because you had hidden the spade K behind your clubs when you valued the hand, what would you do on your next turn if South bid 1-No Trump, West over-called with 2-Spades and North passed?

SOVIETS HALT NEW ASSAULT ON STALINGRAD

Beat Off Frenzied Attack of Men, Planes and Tanks Before Volga City.

gle in the central Caucasus, 350 miles down the Baku railway from Rostov, aparently was stabilizing in the Mosdok region 50 miles northwest of the Grozny oil fields, and declared Soviet troops had slaughtered 850 German officers and men in a battle along the Terek river yesterday.

In the western air war, waves of RAF bombers—perhaps 250 strong—attacked the Rhineland port city of Frankfurt in their sixth night raid on Germany this month.

Great fires were left raging in the city, the British air ministry reported. Seven RAF bombers were acknowledged missing.

Other RAF planes attacked targets elsewhere in the Rhineland, and DNB, the official German news agency, said "material damage was caused in residential districts of some towns."

DNB said German night raiders attacked Great Yarmouth and an airfield near Bedford, but the British declared the attacks were light and caused little damage.

On the Egyptian battlefront, British headquarters reported a continued lull in ground fighting while RAF planes attacked Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's long-drawn supply lines on the Salum-Matruh road, destroying trucks, fuel tank cars and staff cars.

Three German planes were reported shot down in air fights over the El Alamein front, 80 miles west of Alexandria, where Rommel was reported reforming his battered armored forces.

Use Bayonets To Slow Jap Advance

(By Associated Press)

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Australian headquarters reported today that Allied troops, often fighting with bayonets, had slowed the Japanese drive up the rocky approaches to "the gap" — an 8,000-foot mountain pass in the Owen Stanley range — 50 miles west of the United Nations outpost at Port Moresby, New Guinea.

A headquarters spokesman said the fighting raged about 2,000 feet below "the gap" on the west side of the range.

Dispatches said Japanese losses were heavy as Allied patrols defended the jungle-bordered trail in fierce hand-to-hand fighting.

A single Australian patrol of 20 men, opposed by 300 Japanese, effectively ambushed the enemy with machine-guns, tommy guns and rifles on Sunday, dispatches said.

In the Milne bay sector, on the southeast tip of New Guinea, Australian troops were credited with inflicting 700 casualties on the enemy, and reports said the Japanese sea-borne force in that area had now been practically wiped out.

Despite bad weather prevailing over the New Guinea battle region, Allied bombers and torpedo-carrying planes carried out repeated attacks on Japanese warships north of Milne bay, pounding the enemy on Monday near Normanby island and again Tuesday among the Robriand islands. A Japanese destroyer was listed as probably hit.

U. S. Fliers Carry War Back Into Burma

NEW DELHI—(INS)—The U. S. Army Air Force carried the war to Japanese Occupation Forces in the Burma region Sept. 3 by smashing Bhamo and Katha, a communique issued by Brig. Gen. Clayton Bissel revealed today.

Commander of the U. S. Army Air corps in India, Burma and China, Bissel announced that American medium bombers raided Bhamo, setting two large fires. Other bombs, the bulletin stated, hit dockyards and railroad tracks near Katha.

QUAKE REPORTED

Disturbance placed 'Somewhere In Aleutian Islands.'

WESTON, Mass. — (AP) — An earthquake of moderate intensity, apparently in the Aleutian islands, was recorded last night on the Weston college seismograph.

Rev. Daniel Linehan, seismologist, said the quake, which registered at 9:35.24 p. m. (EWT), was approximately 4,100 miles northwest of Boston, which would place it "somewhere in the Aleutians."

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohioans will have to observe the customary voting hours of 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. at the Nov. 3rd election, Secretary of State John E. Sweeney decided today.

Several suggestions had been made, Sweeney said, for changing the election hours to give longer time for defense workers to vote.

crease, from 664 last year to 695 today.

Other enrollment figures with today's total listed first and last year's following them are:

Hedges, 440, 416; Brinkerhoff, 252, 235; Carpenter, 222, 245; Prospect, 237, 220; Western Avenue, 251, 238; West Fifth, 212, 195; Woodland, 131, 134; sight-saving classes, 18, 16; Sunshine school, 8, 7; vocational, 29, 28; deaf school, 19, 16.

Supt. Miller blamed the enrollment slump on a shift in population in the city and from Mansfield to other centers of greater war activity. He added, however, that a number of high school pupils had obtained temporary working permits and would return to school later.

A new course offering instruction for Senior high school pupils in the fundamentals of aviation will be given this year. Supt. Miller said the course had not been organized today and there were no enrollment figures available for the classes.

Diplomatic Break Seen as Washington Rejects Bombing Protest.

will be bombed at every opportunity in the future."

Tuck emphasized that Americans have no desire to see Frenchmen suffer any more than can be avoided, "since they have already suffered to an incalculable extent under German occupation," but he left no doubt that attacks on German objectives would be continued regardless of protests.

While the bluntness of the American rejection caused new speculation as to a possible break with Vichy, there was no indication that the state department contemplated such a step. Observers familiar with the recurrent crises in Vichy-United States relations expected that a break, if it came, would be on Vichy's initiative under German pressure.

Entering into such speculations were reports that Germany was pressing Vichy for permission to station troops and planes at Dakar, strategic French base on Africa's west coast.

Nazis Ordered to 'Get' Fortresses That Hit Morale

Fact that the Germans have failed to bring down even one of the fortresses so they could examine its engines and armor was conceded as a contributory factor to the Nazis' perturbed state of mind.

The two planes downed in the Meaulte foray fell out of the enemy's reach.

"We encountered 50 to 60 fighters over Meaulte Sunday," Lieutenant John C. Summers said. "Obviously, Goering gave the strictest orders to his crack squadrons to get a fortress. Undoubtedly the Nazis are awed by the fortresses and wonder how they are made."

Tibbet's plane performed one of the most amazing feats a flying fortresses has yet uncorked. Sgt. Zacki Cowan told how the plane went into Meaulte without fighter support, then Sgt. Warren K. Hughes, 20, of Lowell, N. C., revealed: "We were flying at 20,000 feet when a 20 millimeter shell from a FW 190 hit our vertical stabilizer and ripped a hole in out tail big enough for a man to stand in. Our rudder was nearly out of commission, but we stayed in formation, bombed our target and returned home safely," Hughes said.

HUNT KILLERS OF TWO WOMEN

Police Seek Slayers After Finding Bullet-Riddled Bodies.

TOMAH, Wis. —(INS)— A three-state search was pressed today for the mystery killers of two young women social workers shot to death as they were returning to work from a week-end holiday at their homes in Kenosha, Wis.

The victims were Miss Neil Jon Pietrangeli, 25, a welfare worker at the state public school for dependent children at nearby Sparta, Wis., and Miss Dorothy Baun, 32, social welfare worker for the state parole board with headquarters at Eau Claire, Wis.

Their bodies, bullet-riddled and stripped of all clothing except their shoes and stockings, were found by a roadside in a lonely wooded area eight miles southeast of Tomah.

JEWRY IN MANSFIELD TO START HOLIDAY OBSERVANCE FRIDAY

The Jewish New Year or Rosh Hashonah beginning the year, 5703, of the Jewish calendar will be observed by peoples of the Hebrew faith starting Friday at sundown.

Falling on Saturday Rosh Hashonah is the first of the Jewish high holidays and it begins a 10-day period of penitence culminating in the Day of Atonement. During this period Jewish people are urged to reflect, to repent and to resolve for a nobler conduct in the coming year.

Special services will be held by B'nai Jacob congregation at 50 Sturges avenue starting Friday evening and continuing through Sunday. Rabbi David Rub will conduct the services Friday at 7 p. m., Saturday at 8 a. m., and again at 6 p. m. and Sunday both at 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Temple Emanuel at 132 West Second street will hold services Friday night and Saturday morning in charge of Rabbi Alvin Luchs of Columbus. The services are scheduled for 8 p. m. Friday and 10 a. m. Saturday.

"Rosh Hashonah," said Rabbi Rub, "is observed because it is a perpetual celebration of the glory of kindness and goodnes and of the life philosophies whose chief function is to furnish humanity with the incentive to love and harmony."

A special feature of the New Year service is the blowing of the shofer, a ram's horn, commemorating the incident of the binding of Isaac as a divine protest against the practice of human sacrifice.

In calling the attention of his congregation to the holiday, Rabbi Rub said, "Let us trace our descent back to our patriarchs and remember that in the same way as the names of the Hitlers will always be associated with deeds of cruelty and tyranny, so will the great democracies and their followers live forever as those whose words and deeds never die."

DRAW UP BILL ON FDR ORDER

Legislators Seek Price-Wage Measure Acceptable To Labor, Farmers.

sketched a broad program which pointed toward controlling industrial wages as well as the levels for farm crops.

Agreeing with the president that floors were as desirable as ceilings for farm prices, the Michigan senator said they probably would be included in the program. The proposed bill would call for repeal of section 3 of the price control act, which provides that price ceilings on farm products may not be set at less than 110 per cent of parity, or the market price of last Oct. 1, last Dec. 15, or the average price from 1919 to 1929, whichever is highest.

Brown indicated the measure probably would "authorize" the chief executive to control wages, but added that the authorization might be turned into a directive before the bill was enacted. Whether wage floors as well as ceilings would be established remained to be decided.

While administration leaders worked over their bill, some Republicans continued to protest against the president's demands.

"Why is the president so concerned about the price of commodities when two-thirds of the total national income comes from wages and salaries?" asked Senator Butler (R., Neb.).

Rep. Fish (R., N. Y.) likened Mr. Roosevelt's action to placing a pistol against congress' head and commented it was "exactly what is to be expected from a third-term president."

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

It happens so seldom, and is always so unexpected, that newspapermen are always pleasantly surprised when someone thanks them for something they consider nothing more than their daily chore of news reporting.

But it's been happening so often here of late that I'm getting just a bit groggy with surprise. What goes on here, anyhow?

Frank Heitz, chairman of the J. A. C. sports committee, writes a thank-you note for the publicity job on the recent J. A. C. boxing show, Westbrook Pro Tom Raklets calls up to say that Westbrook members and Ohio Senior golfers were highly pleased with the coverage of the recent senior golf tournament; and Kent Rummel stops to thank me for a recent squib on the Pleasant Hill boat club which he says brought out a big crowd to their races.

I don't quite understand this sudden thank-you epidemic, but as the little gal in the comic strip says: "Gloriosky, it makes me feel good all over."

The climax of this epidemic was reached when Bob Winbigler, stopping in to say goodbye before leaving today with Paul Dietzel for Duke university, insisted on thanking me "for the publicity which got me my scholarship at Duke."

And I can't agree with Bob there. It was his fine play in football and basketball that got him his scholarship at Duke. And I'm happy if I had any little part in bringing his athletic prowess to the attention of people outside Mansfield.

Harry the Merry Mehock brought a bushel of vegetables from his garden on the Paul Snyder farm around to the Hess menage the other day, and made this little presentation speech to my manager:

"He can't kid me about my garden and get away with it. Look at these vegetables. And those potatoes that Snyder was laughing so much about in the Podge a while back are coming along just dandy too.

"Tell Red to ask Snyder about the fine batch of weeds he was raising, thinking they were posies. And Snyder's supposed to be a farmer."

That old gag about going "home to see what the neighbors brought in," isn't just a gag anymore.

Added to the garden produce, with which Coaches Snyder and Mehock have supplied us, was the finest batch of sweet corn we've had all summer, brought round by Printer Jim Gill.

You think eating roasting ears isn't sport? You should see the way my son Dave slides that ear from ear to ear as he races down the cob.

Champion Blues Battle Columbus

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Kansas City, newly crowned successor to Columbus as champion of the American Association, places that rank of supremacy on the block tonight against those same Red Birds as the annual playoff series are inaugurated to determine the A. A. representative that will meet the survivor of the International league eliminations in the little world series.

In the other opening of the four-out-of-seven test, Toledo, which nosed out Louisville for the fourth berth o the last day of the regular season, engages Milwaukee in the latter's ball park.

Cardinal Boss Tells Strategy

Play Each Game as We Come to It, Says Billy.

By SID FEDER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

TAKE it direct from Billy (the Kid) Southworth, the Brooklyn Dodgers don't look any different to his St. Louis Cardinals than any other club in the National league.

Now this is not to imply that the Phillies resemble the Dodgers —or are even a reasonable facsimile thereof. But as he led his roaring Redbirds into their final ful scale invasion of the east today—an invasion that the Cards still confidently expect will wind up with the National league pennant—Billy the Kid came right out with his battle strategy—"We play 'em as we meet 'em, game by game."

He stayed by this theory, even though the bums boasted a gaudy three-game bulge on the Cardinals as a result of Ed Head's four-hit whitewash to give the Dodgers a 4-0 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday. The Cardinals were idle.

"But we're still confident and we're still in the fight," Southworth insisted. "We play this single game with the Giants today. Then we move into Brooklyn for those two games Friday and Saturday. And then we have the Phillies and Braves after that.

"Well, we're playing every ball game as it comes along. Brooklyn is just another ball game, the same as Boston and Philadelphia. We're trying to win each one of 'em and get this—we're not looking forward or backward. We're only looking at what's right there in front of us each day."

The Dodgers had little trouble with Pittsburgh. Head had the Bucs rolling over and playing dead, and when his mates gave him a run in the first frame, the whole thing was over. In fact, after the first inning, not a Pirate got as far as second base.

This was the only game in the National league, while over in the American league three games were run off, chief of which saw the Washington Senators nosing out the Boston Red Sox, 15 to 11. All told, 35 hits rattled off the Griffith stadium fences but in the end, ten walks handed out by the Sox elbowers did as much damage as anything else. A second game had to be called at the end of four innings so both teams could catch a train.

The setback sank the second place Sox 9½ games behind the idle New York Yankees.

The St. Louis Browns put a firmer grab on the American league's third place by whipping the Detroit Tigers 4-1.

The Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox were slated for a doubleheader, but after young Ray Poat's seven-hit twirling whipped the Sox 10-0 in the opener, the second game had to be called off.

Continue Net Tournaments

Only Real Disaster To Halt Tennis Jousts.

NEW YORK — (UP) — Unless something really disastrous, like an invasion, occurs, the National amateur tennis championships will be carried on for the duration, President Holcombe Ward of the U. S. Lawn Tennis association said today.

The best players available will be used in a long-range plan to develop young performers to recapture the coveted Davis cup, Ward said.

He pointed out that the championships have been held each year since 1881 with the exception of 1917, when patriotic tournaments were staged.

"I don't think it will be difficult to continue the championships," Ward said, "unless something really disastrous happens. Tennis isn't like other sports, demanding older players. We have literally thousands of youngsters, many as young as 15, who can carry on competition. Neither do we have a mass transportation problem.

"In addition, the game is healthful for the youngsters and the tournament raises war funds: So I see no reason why we shouldn't continue."

Bucyrus Golf Tourneys Ended

BUCYRUS—Two trophy winners won their places at Bucyrus Country club over the holiday week-end when the finals in the President's cup championship match was played off and the Chuck-Walt tournament played.

Ken Gravelle, top notch golfer at the club repeated his last year's performance taking the President's cup for the second consecutive year by defeating Roberts, runner up.

Jay Winters with a 171 for 36 holes won the Chuck-Walt trophy which was open to players 35 years of age or older.

HALFBACK SOLD

HIRAM —(U.P.)— Halfback Dave Bernard, formerly with Cincinnati in the American league, reported to the Pittsburgh Steelers today. He was sold to the Steelers by the Cleveland Rams for an undisclosed sum.

PLAY-OFF STARTS IN MID-ATLANTIC LOOP

CHARLESTON, W. Va. —(AP)—Charleston, winner of the Mid-Atlantic league pennant, meets Canton tonight in one division of the loop's semi-final playoff series, while Dayton and Erie clash at Dayton.

The teams will switch cities after two games of the three-out-of five series. The semi-final winner will meet in a four-of-seven game series for the championship cup.

Conn, Louis Battle Again

Entire Gate Goes To Army Relief Fund.

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Simply for the pleasure of giving the wives and kiddies of our doughboys a million dollars, a couple of Uncle Sam's soldiers are going to climb into Yankee stadium's ring on Columbus day to fight the hottest fistic "natural" in six years.

It is almost as sure as a bomb-sight's aim that the heavyweight championship return fight on Oct. 12 between Corp. Joe Louis, boss man of the beak busters, and Pvt. Billy Conn, who almost took the title a year ago, will hit the million-dollar jackpot for the first time since the Bomber's second bout with Max Schmeling in '38.

The memory of the fireworks they set off in their first brawl is enough to bring the customers storming back again. And, if more help was needed, the fact that this one is entirely for army emergency relief will more than make up the difference. What's more, Promoter Mike Jacobs is shooting at a crowd of 77,000 and a gate of $1,200,000—with tickets scaled from $3 to $40—and he figures a lot of the folks who will be here for the World Series the first week in October will stick around and help jingle the cash registers.

Yet, not one nickel of it, except for minor expenses, will go to either fighter or Promoter Jacobs. The son of the Alabama cotton picker, the tough Irish kid out of Pittsburgh and Jacobs will dump the whole pot into the bank account for the families of our soldiers.

The army, at long last, gave its official blessing to the get-together yesterday after keeping all hands in a lather of doubt about it for a dozen weeks or so.

The Bomber and the Pittsburgh Pretty Boy are going to do a pretty fair country job of rewriting the record books. The fact that Joe and Billy are putting this one on for the house—doing the almost unheard of stunt of fighting for the world heavyweight championship for nothing — is a record itself.

Then, too, it marks the first time in legalized nose-mashing that two soldier boys have fought for the richest prize package in the business. On top of that, it will be the first daylight fight for the big bauble since Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons broiled under the sun at Shelby, Mont., 19 years back. Because of dim-out regulations here, Promoter Mike plans to move it up to 3 p. m.

Conn, stationed at nearby Fort Wadsworth, and Louis, who is with the cavalry at Fort Riley, Kas., were both as steamed up as a couple of kids with a bag of candy over the prospects of putting on a re-run of their thriller. A year age, Conn amazed even his closest pals by taking a long lead for 12 rounds, only to get his "Irish up," try to trade Sunday shots with Joe in the 13th, and run smack into the Bomber's knockout drops.

* * *

Billy, scaling 185 now, will do his training at a specially constructed camp at Jacobs' Rumson (N. J.) estate. Louis said that he is "12 or 15 pounds overweight," which would put him in the neighborhood of a hefty 220. He will train at Greenwood Lake, N. Y., as usual.

Decathlon Champ Enlists In Navy

DETROIT —(INS)— Uncle Sam's navy today had another outstanding athlete—Glenn E. Morris, 30, world's Olympic decathlon champion in 1936, who enlisted as a chief specialist in the U. S. naval reserve to become a drill instructor in Commander Gene Tunney's physical fitness program.

Morris had been working in Detroit defense plants.

Morris set a new world's record in winning the decathlon in Berlin, scoring 7,900 points, 20 more than the existing record. He played end on the Colorado State college football team from 1931 to 1933, and was an end for the Detroit professional Lions in 1940.

He holds the 1936 James E. Sullivan memorial trophy, awarded annually to America's outstanding amateur athlete.

HAWKS TAKE TO AIR

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(INS)—Offensive drills held the spotlight today in the Iowa Hawkeyes' football practice sessions, with Sam Vacanti, Jim Youell, and Tom Farmer doing the passing. The aerial attack and signal drills will continue for the week, Coach Eddie Anderson said.

VETERANS SHINE

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—(INS)— Kenneth Smock and Tony Berto, veteran Purdue backs, stood out today as the key men in the boilermaker attack following recent football scrimmage sessions.

Welcomed at John Carroll

JOE ROMANO

Mansfield's all-Ohio high school end of last season, Joe Romano, was one of 27 freshmen and 27 upper classmen issued football uniforms at John Carroll University in Cleveland yesterday. Cleveland papers report Romano is the best known of the freshman players, and recall his fine play against Massillon last fall.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON

NEW YORK —(World Wide)—The Louis-Conn fracas looks like a money-making natural from here . . . Because the world series will be bringing sports fans east and if they want something to do with their time after that is over, three first-class football games are on tap here the Saturday before the Oct. 12 scrap to keep them around . . . P. S.: We pick Louis to win, figuring army life will hurt Conn's speed more than Joe's punch.

When Camp Croft, S. So take it, and happy socking."

Wildcats Have Young Outfit

Waldorf Faces Job of Rebuilding at Evanston.

By LEO FISCHER

EVANSTON, Ill. — (INS) — "A young team, strong in some spots and doubtful in others."

That's the verdict of Coach Lynn Waldorf himself as he starts the task of putting together a Northwestern eleven which this fall must face the toughest schedule in the history of the school.

With 11 of his regulars gone, Waldorf needs a center, a quarterback, some reserves, and most of all—experience for the newcomers on whom much of the team's success or failure will depend.

It isn't such a hopeless reconstruction job, however. The four men around whom the 1942 team will be built are among the best in their line. They are Otto Graham, halfback; Nick Burke, tackle and team captain, and Bob Motl and Bus Hasse, ends.

Graham, of course, is the key to the entire situation. He led the team in passing last year with a completion record of almost 50 per cent and was one of the top ground-gainers in the conference.

The rest of the backfield isn't quite so bright, with only three other veterans on hand. They are Dud Kean, who played halfback last year and will be shifted to quarterback; Don Buffmire, who showed flashes of brilliance last year, and Ed Hirsch, who ranked as No. 3 fullback behind Don Clawson and George Benson in 1941.

Leading new halfback candidates include four sophomores and a made-over end. The ex-yearlings are Joe Scriba, a wiry 162-pounder; Harry Franck; Nick Vodick, a husky blocking back from South Bend, and John Winter.

Bill Doeduic, who saw little service as an end last year, has been shifted to the backfield and may relieve Kean at quarterback.

Best fullback prospects, aside from Hirsch, are Casey Peifer, who played fullback at Austin high in Chicago with Bill De Correvont, and Larry Adelman, a sophomore.

Aside from center, the line is well fortified.

These are the men on whom will fall the heavy task of repelling Iowa's Naval Cadets, Texas, Purdue, Michigan, Ohio, Minnesota, Illinois, Notre Dame and Great Lakes. We'd say they're a good bet to win six, or even seven of those 10 games.

Tribe Rookie Hurls Shutout

Ray Poat Blanks White Sox; Line-up Changed.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The anemic Cleveland Indians are getting some new blood in a belated attempt to regain early-season strength in the stretch.

The first transfusion worked fine. Ray Poat, returning to the Tribe after spending most of the season with Indianapolis of the American association, pitched a 10 to 0 shutout over the Chicago White Sox yesterday in the first game of what was to have been a double header. Weather postponed the second game.

For their final 1942 game under the lights against Philadelphia here tonight, the Indians will have more new blood. Manager Lou Boudreau announced he would use Ted Sczepkowski, 18-year-old farm hand from the Baltimore club of the International league, at second base.

Two other rookies brought up from Baltimore with the young infielder also are expected to see action tonight. They are Hank Edwards of Norwalk, O., who will be sent to the outfield, and First Baseman Bill Robinson.

Sczepkowski, rated a $50,000 prospect by some International league veterans, batted .240 for the season at Baltimore. Robinson had a .295 average and hit 23 home runs, and Edwards, .271 and 17 homers.

Poat, who attended the University of Illinois with Boudreau, yielded seven hits and four bases on balls in his first start since rejoining the Indians, but he ably pitched his way out of the tight spots. He was with Cleveland at the start of the season and was charged with one loss, a 6 to 2 decision dropped to Detroit.

BASEBALL LEAGUE PREXIES TO MEET

DURHAM, N. C.—(U.P.)—A brief, strictly-business meeting of minor league presidents will replace the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, Dec. 2-4, in Minneapolis, Minor League Czar W. G. Bramham announced today.

Cancellation of the convention "in deference to a government suggeston" would "in no wise interfere with necessary business of the association," Bramham said.

Western Army Meets Lions

Detroit Must Build Defense For Kimbrough.

DETROIT —(U.P.)— The revitalized Detroit Lions of the National Football league meet the western army all-star football squad tonight in University of Detroit stadium.

Today Coach Bill Edwards of the Lions admitted the key to victory for his club would be in checking the devastating touchdown jaunts of Lieut. John Kimbrough, Texas A. & M.'s brilliant All-American fullback of 1939 and '40.

It was Kimbrough's bruising line-plunging and dazzling broken field running that enabled the army team to defeat the professional Chicago Cardinals, 16-10, at Denver, Colo., Sunday. Big John scored both army touchdowns, one of them on a 97-yard run after kickoff.

Major Wallace Wade, coach of the soldiers, has a host of rugged offensive players today, including Lieut. Herman Rohrig of Nebraska and the Green Bay Packers, Lieut. Don Scott, of Ohio State; Lieut. Jimmy Thomason, blocker for Kimbrough at Texas A & M; Pvt. Kay Eakin, formerly of Arkansas and the New York Giants; and Bill Dawson, Giant pass-catching end.

The Lions proved their mettle by steam-rollering the Philadelphia Eagles into defeat, 42-7, in an exhibition at Erie, Pa., Saturday night.

Retired Athletes Lose Strength

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. —(INS)— Recent tests by Indiana university's physical fitness directors revealed that young men who discontinue regular exercise and active participation in sports at college age lose up to 21 per cent of their endurance and strength.

Karl W. Bookwalter, physical education instructor, who conducted special tests in such events as the 2-mile walk, 60-yard dash, 440-yard dash, standing broad jump, chinning and vertical jump, said that the difference between trained and untrained students is so pronounced that division into different classes has been made.

Three Buckeye Teams Picked

Ohio State Gridders Given Heavy Action.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— With two days of the stiffest opening workouts ever experienced by an Ohio State football team behind them, Paul E. Brown's 43 grid hopefuls moved into the third day of drills today, grimly determined to be in tip-top shape for the season inaugural with Fort Knox, just two and a half weeks away.

Clipping along at the rate of three-plays-a-day the Buckeyes seem to be further advanced than last year's outfit at a corresponding time.

Casualties were conspicuous by absence, only mishap through the first four practices being a cut lip suffered by Paul Priday, second string quarterback from West Jefferson. Although the wound required four stitches to close, Priday bounced right out on the field for subsequent practice sessions—an idea of the prevalent feeling on the scarlet and gray team this year.

The Bucks were treated to their first taste of pass offensive drills yesterday afternoon after a morning period given over to fundamental work and handing out of another "play-and-a-half."

At the conclusion of two days' practice, the first three teams look like this:

No. 1: Bob Shaw, Fremont, and Dante Levelli, Hudson, ends; Charles Csuri, Cleveland, and Bill Willis, Columbus, tackles; Hal Dean, Wooster, and Lin Houston, Massillon, guards; Bill Vickroy, Toledo, center; Capt. George Lynn, Niles, quarterback; Les Horvath, Cleveland; and Paul Sarringhaus, Hamilton, halfbacks, and Gene Fekete, Findlay, fullback.

No. 2: John White, River Rouge, Mich., and Don Steinberg, Toledo, ends; Jom Rees, Greenville, and Don Steinberg, Toledo, ends; Jim Rees, Greenville, and Don McCafferty, Cleveland, tackles; Wib Schneider, Gahanna, and Bob Jabbusch, Elyria, guards; Gordon Appleby, Massillon, centetr; Paul Priday, West Jefferson, quarterback, Bill Durtschi, Galion, and Tom James, Massillon, halfbacks; Dick Palmer, Cleveland, fullback.

No. 3: Bill Sedor, Shadyside, and Cecil Souders, Bucyrus, ends; Jack Dugger, Canton, and Bob McCormick, Columbus, tackles; Bill Hackett, London, and Carmen Naples, Youngstown, guards; Jack Roe, Steubenville, center; Paul Selby, Columbus, quarterback; Bob Frye, Crestline, and George Slusser, Massillon, halfbacks, and Tom Cleary, Cleveland, fullback.

WORK ON OFFENSE

NEW YORK—(INS)—The Fordham Rams are going into intensive offensive training, it was determined today following study of Coach Earl Walsh's workout of the team yesterday. Accent was on blocking and tackling by linesmen while two backfield combinations were busy with entensive signal practise.

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

LIKE "winning a letter", keeping out in front of the others takes an extra something. Coca-Cola has it, —in taste... in quality... in refreshment.

The finished art that comes from 57 years of practice goes into the making of Coca-Cola. A special blend of flavor-essences merges all the ingredients of Coca-Cola into a unique, original taste of its own.

Everybody recognizes this clean, exciting quality taste in Coca-Cola. There are many ways to quench your thirst, but only Coca-Cola refreshes like Coca-Cola. Contentment comes when you connect with a Coke.

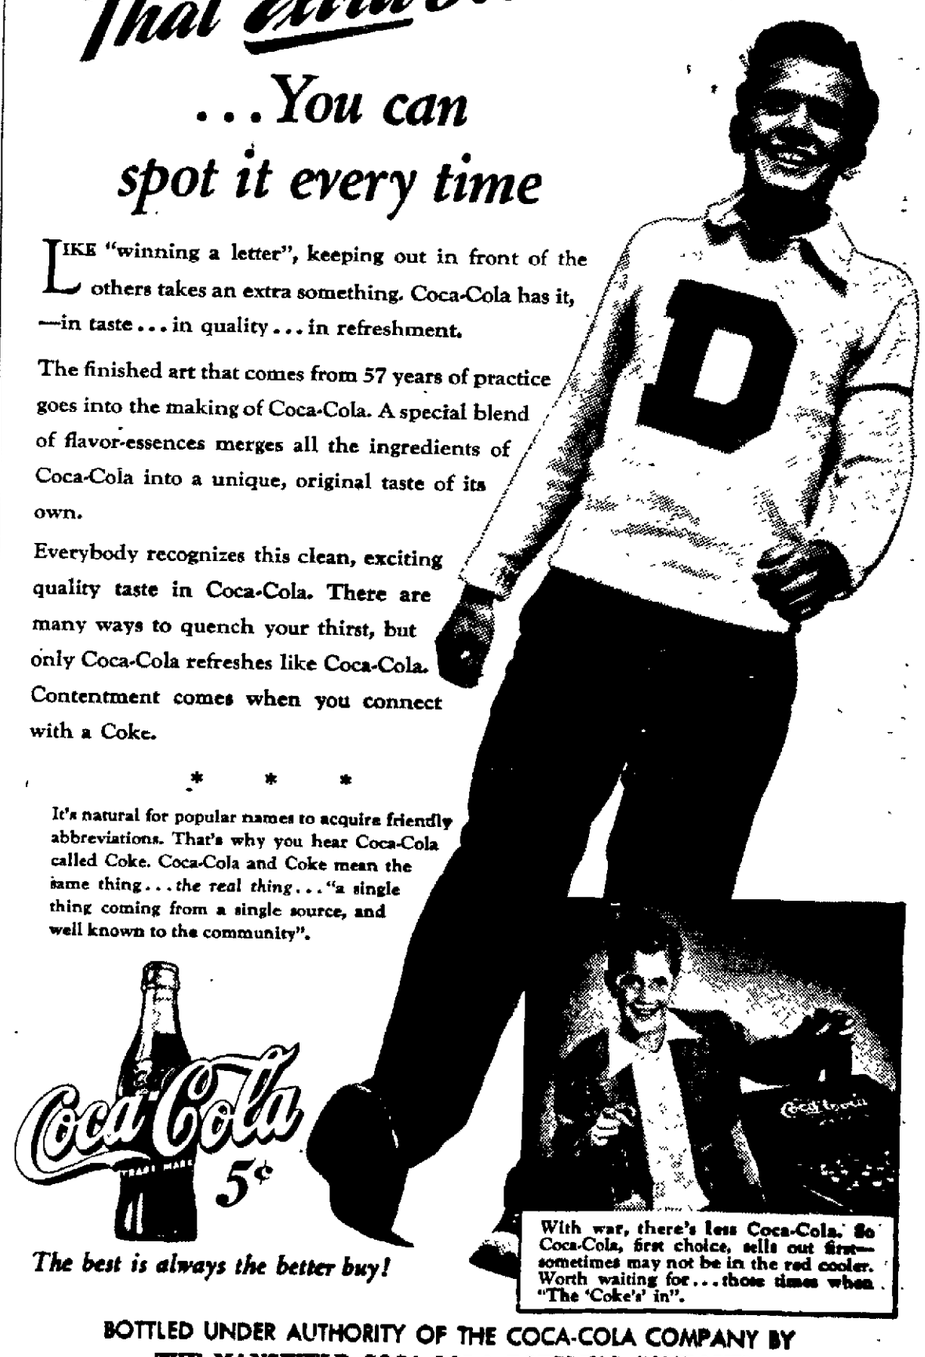
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing... the real thing... "a single thing coming from a single source, and well known to the community".



Coca-Cola 5¢

The best is always the better buy!

With war, there's less Coca-Cola. So Coca-Cola, first choice, sells out first—sometimes may not be in the red cooler. Worth waiting for... those times when "The 'Coke's' in".

PAM—Bronner Worried! By A. W. Brewerton

THOSE FIVE MORE CRACK F.B.I. MEN I'VE STATIONED IN THE OFFICE AND PLANT OUGHT TO BE SUFFICIENT PROTECTION AGAINST FURTHER DAMAGE, BUT I STILL CAN'T HELP FEELING UNEASY ABOUT PAM--PLUCKY GIRL!
ODD THING, TOO, IT STRUCK ME THAT BRONNER WAS MORE GENUINELY CONCERNED ABOUT THE SAFETY OF HIS PEOPLE, HIS EMPLOYEES, THAN HE WAS OVER THE DESTRUCTION OF HIS PLANT!
9-9
MR. BRONNER IS TERRIBLY WORRIED OVER THIS LATEST DEVELOPMENT! THAT'S NATURAL, I GUESS --- WHETHER HE'S GUILTY OR NOT.
HE AND MR. WILSON HAVE BEEN IN CONFERENCE ALL MORNING!
HORACE, I'VE ABOUT REACHED THE POINT WHERE I'M READY TO CLOSE DOWN THIS PLANT-- VITAL AS IT IS TO THE WAR'S PROGRESS --! RATHER THAN SEE SO MANY LIVES LOST!
I FEEL THAT WAY, TOO, JOHN. BUT DON'T YOU SEE, MAYBE THAT'S EXACTLY WHAT THEY'RE TRYING TO MAKE US DO?

CAMP BLANDING, Fla.—(INS)—Gasoline and ruber shortages is the least of Robert Sisson's worres. Sisson, chief of civilian personnel at Camp Blanding's Station hospital, doesn't need any rubber at all, and only a quart of gasoline to meet his needs for travel to and from work each day. The personnel chief lives across Kingsley Lake, which Camp Blanding borders, and can make the trip from his home to work in about 10 minutes—via motorboat.

STOCK MARKET PRICES BOUNCE FRACTIONALLY

Business Failures Decline During Past Week, Say Dun & Bradstreet.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stock market prices today contained a good sprinkling of fractional gains among leaders and industrial specialties.

Higher were DuPont, General Electric, Douglas Aircraft, National Distillers, Standard Oil (NJ), U. S. Steel, International Telephone, Goodrich and Sears Roebuck. Down a little were Chrysler, American Telephone and Glenn Martin.

As a sidelight of war dislocations financial authorities found interest in the weekly report of business failures by Dun & Bradstreet. It disclosed 122 insolvencies for the period ended Sept. 3 compared with 141 in the preceding week and 141 for the same time last year.

Foundering companies with liabilities of $5,000 or more numbered 58 for the week against 66 the week before and 61 last year.

OK 7 BILLION IN NEW TAXES

Senators Approve 5 Per Cent 'Victory' Levy on All Earnings Above $624.

sult in any event might be to increase the nation's annual tax yield to more than $25,000,000,000 compared with slightly more than $17,000,000,000 collected under present laws.

As approved by the committee yesterday, the "victory" tax would constitute a 5 per cent impost, collected at the source where possible, on all income above $624 a year derived from wages, salaries, interest, dividends and other common sources.

While it would be collected alike from single and married persons, the latter could accumulate greater credits against the tax during the year.

Credits of 25 per cent of the tax, or a maximum of $500, could be accumulated by single persons for payments they had made on life insurance, debts incurred before Jan. 1, 1942 or government bond purchases. The remainder of the unused credit would be represented in non-negotiable, non-interest bearing government bonds they could cash after the war.

Married persons could claim similar credits up to 40 per cent of the tax, a maximum of $1,000, with 2 per cent, or a maximum of $100, allowed for each dependent.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) suggested that this extra, added tax might be merged into the regular income tax by lowering exemptions, increasing rates and possibly by eliminating the present law's 70 per cent credit for earned income.

Democrats Elect Frank Cave as County Chairman

in Precinct F of the Second ward. Cave was elected to the committee after he was chosen chairman, making 94 members, one more than during the past two years.

Addressing the approximately 50 committeemen at the meeting, Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, candidate for re-election, urged party workers to improve their county organization.

He said in his own behalf that he had reduced the cost of jury sessions in the county and had inaugurated a probation system whereby about 45 per cent of the first offenders brought before him are given another chance, saving the county the money that would be required to keep them in a penal institution.

Ralph Lutz, candidate for state representative, said "the state surplus we hear so much about doesn't mean much after all for most of it belongs to the schools and municipalities." He charged that Gov. John W. Bricker's administration had "spent more money than any other in Ohio history."

County Commissioner C. L. Mitchell, candidate for re-election, spoke briefly in behalf of his candidacy.

EIGHT DEAD IN NEWARK CRASH

the plane striking the apartment and the subsequent crash. A tip of one wing was picked up two blocks from the scene.

Jerry Neighbor, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Neighbor, had as close a brush with death as any who escaped.

He was walking to his home from school and heard a terrific roar just after passing the apartment. He related he thought at first it was an airplane, then decided it was lightning and ran on without looking back.

His father, who lives near the scene of the crash, ran into the street and met his son. The boy was limping then, and he said:

"I guess a rock hit my leg, dad."

An investigation showed a deep gash which doctors at a hospital said evidently was inflicted by flying concrete.

The end of the apartment where Mrs. Welch and Mrs. Winsch were working was sheared off completely—an effect comparable to clipping the building in two with huge shears. A bathtub hung crazily from one corner where the bathroom had been.

Immediately below was the kitchen in which the women had been working. Only one wall was left standing. On a wall upstairs a clock still hung, its hands stopped a few minutes after noon, the time of the crash.

The plane was buried so far into the building that newcomers looked about and asked, "where is the airplane?"

Navy Reveals All Saved as Fire Sweeps Former 'Liner 'Manhattan.'

under control, the navy account continued, but their efforts were unsuccessful and it soon became necessary for them also to transfer to the cruiser.

Aboard that ship they waited until the intensity of the fire had decreased somewhat and Commander Bradbury then led a special fire-fighting party back aboard the transport and succeeded in bringing the flames under control.

Meanwhile tugs and salvage craft had been summoned and when they arrived successfully began towing operations. They finally delivered the former Manhattan to port.

The vessel was built in 1932 for the United States lines by the New York Shipbuilding company at Camden, N. J. At the time of her completion she was the largest transatlantic liner built in the United States.

The United States ship was sunk in the north Atlantic last month. Two merchant sailors and two navy gunners were missing. Forty-six survivors were picked up by a British corvett.

The British ship was sunk in the Caribbean in mid-August. The entire crew of 53 men was rescued by an American warship 20 minutes after their vessel was torpedoed.
